TRUCK DRIVER PROTESTS

Lee Dowd of Petaluma, independent truck service owner stood beside his truck covered with protest signs at the California Highway Patrol inspection station in San Rafael yesterday. He said he painted the signs declaring his truck won't roll today due to high fuel cost after a Ukiah service station charged him 51.1 cents a gallon for 108 gallons of diesel fuel. Elsewhere, independent truckers called for a nationwide shutdown; one noncomplying driver was killed in Pennsylvania and another was kidnapped in Ohio yesterday. Highway patrol spokesmen in Marin and Sonoma counties reported no trouble, but said they were ready to tow away any truck that tries to block traffic. (Photo by Bob Hax)

Veneman Wants To Be No. 2

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — John G. Veneman, a former Nixon administration official who calls himself an "optimistic Republican" in the era of Watergate, today announced himself as a candidate for lieutenant governor.

"The restoration of the people's confidence in our political and governmental institutions may very well be the greatest challenge facing any candidate in 1974," he said.

Veneman, a former state Assembly revenue and taxation expert who unsuccessfully fought for payroll withholding of income taxes, was appointed undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare in 1969, a post he held four years.

Veneman, who like his former boss at HEW, Robert H. Finch, was never implicated by Watergate, resigned his federal post a year ago and returned to San Francisco where he operated a public affairs consulting firm.

At a news conference, the 47-year-old former Modesto rancher told reporters, "If you feel compelled to attach a label to my candidacy, just call me an Optimistic Republican."

Veneman, who in a financial statement listed his net worth at $345,175, became the second major Republican to announce for lieutant governor. Sen. John Harmer of Glendale, Senate GOP caucus chairman, declared his candidacy earlier.

Veneman was generally regarded in the Legislature as a political moderate. Harmer is an outspoken conservative on most issues.

Veneman, a political and personal friend of state Controller Houston I. Flournoy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, said he decided to run for lieutenant governor "with a full awareness of the concerns of the electorate following the bizarre political events of 1973."

"I firmly believe that my seven years in the legislature combined with my four years of executive experience as undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare has equipped me with the qualifications to be an effective lieutenant governor with forward vision," he said.

91 On Plane Dead In Crash On Pago Pago

Some Of 10 Survivors May Be Added To Toll

PAGO, PAGO, American Samoa (UPI) — A Pan American World Airways Boeing 707 with 101 persons aboard crashed in a violent thunderstorm 1,000 feet short of the runway today and burst into flames, burning to death most of those aboard when they were trapped in the wreckage.

Witnesses said 91 persons died, most burned to death when they were trapped inside the flaming wreckage. Of the 10 survivors, several were not expected to live.

The Federal Aviation Administration ordered the airport, on the island of Tutuila midway between Hawaii and New Zealand, closed following the crash.

Dr. Peter F. Veales, medical director at the Pago Pago Medical Center, said "most of the dead fried in the plane,"

Veales said the survivors were three women and seven men and that eight were in serious or worse condition with burns over 50 per cent of their body and that several were not expected to live. Two survivors were in fair condition and able to walk about.

"We all tried to get out and jammed the exits," one of the two male survivors said. "I managed to get out over a wing but most of those aboard did not."

The pilot, Capt. Leroy Peterson of San Francisco, radioed the Pago Pago control tower moments before the crash at 12:52 a.m. (6:52 a.m. EDT) that he was encountering violent rain squalls.

Peterson was quoted by airline officials earlier as saying there was a fire aboard but a Pan American spokesman said after an investigation "there is no indication the aircraft was in flames before the touchdown."

The aircraft was flight 806 from Auckland, N.Z., to Honolulu, where most of the crew lived, with an intermediate stop at Pago Pago.

A temporary morgue was set up at the Pago Pago airport which was greatly enlarged by the U.S. Navy during World War II. However the wreckage of the plane was still blazing hot hours after the crash and most of the dead were still inside the wreckage.

Pan American said 49 of the passengers had been scheduled to disembark at Pago Pago and that the other 42 were en route to Honolulu and Los Angeles.

A Pan American Boeing 707 crashed last July 23 shortly after takeoff from Papeete, Tahiti, killing 78 passengers and crew members. There was one survivor, a Canadian.

YOUTH AND THE LAW

Does The Correctional System Lead To Crime?

By GEORGE NEVIN

"It's been proven," said one Marin juvenile official, "that the juvenile and adult corrections systems in this country create criminals."

Jack A. Harrington, program coordinator for the Marin Criminal Justice Planning Agency, was talking about what causes youngsters to commit crimes and what is being done about it.

"In one study in Philadelphia, they took two groups of youngsters of similar backgrounds who had committed crimes. They admonished one group of youngsters and sent them home. The others were taken to court and put on probation."

The results: The admonish-and-release group had 60 per cent fewer repeat offenders than the other group, Harrington said.

To pull the plug on what he calls "a machine cranking out criminals," Harrington is running a three-year, state-funded program to insure that only the most serious juvenile offender is taken into the formal juvenile justice system.

The others — this includes both youngsters who commit petty offenses and those beyond the control of their parents — are handled by local police or counseling. Juvenile court never enters the picture.

As for other theories on the causes of juvenile criminality, it is an old cliche that most

Military Likely To Keep Hamilton

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The chairman of a congressional subcommittee considering the proposed release of 320 acres at Hamilton Air Force Base said today it was unlikely the land will be declared surplus.

The prediction by Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., head of the House Armed Services Committee's Subcommittee on Real Estate, would scrub hopes by a host of local government agencies to use the acreage.

Federal agencies had announced last year the land no longer was needed, but Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, urged the military to take another look at the base before giving any of it up.

Pike told the Independent-Journal his subcommittee will resume hearings sometime next month on the issue. He said "other military needs were not adequately assessed" when the Defense Department converted the base from active to reserve status last year.

Another review of the base was made last month, he said, and "real military needs were found for the entire base."

Among uses reportedly to be shifted to the base are Sixth Army operations now at forts Baker, Barry and Cronkhite on the Marin Headlands, which would open them up to the public as part of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

The three posts are used to house military families and train reservists. Operations at Crissy Field at the Presidio of San Francisco also may be shifted to Hamilton.

Pike's subcommittee has exclusive control over the issue if it decides against releasing the acreage. Full committee action would be needed only to declare the land surplus.

Refinery In Singapore Bombed By Terrorists, Ferry Hijacked

SINGAPORE (UPI) — A band of terrorists set off explosives at an oil refinery today, then won a promise of safe conduct out of the country by hijacking a ferryboat and threatening to blow it up with six hostages aboard.

Two of the four terrorists were Japanese who identified themselves as members of the Japanese Red Army—responsible along with Arab guerrillas for the 1972 Lod airport massacre—while the others said they were members of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP), according to a Singapore official.

As the terrorists held a flotilla of police boats at bay in Singapore Harbor, the official, Tay Seow Huah, permanent secretary of the Home Affairs ministry, said the men would be allowed safe passage as "no life has been lost and minimal damage has been caused."

The hijackers, seeking passage to an Arab country, first asked for the Japanese ambassador and his woman secretary to accompany them, but then dropped the demand for the aide to come along, Tay reported.

He said the hijacked boat would remain at its location about a mile offshore throughout the night while a plane was readied for the terrorists.

The four men earlier in the day stole a sampan and motored to the huge Shell oil refinery on Pualu Bukum Island a mile and a half south of Singapore and tried to blow up a storage tank, Singapore officials said.

Rain Expected To Hit Tonight

A few drops of rain fell in Marin County this morning, advance messengers of the showers expected tonight and tomorrow. No measurable rain has fallen in San Rafael since Jan. 19.

The National Weather Service said a storm approaching from the Pacific Ocean will drop temperatures tonight into the 30s or low 40s, bring snow levels down to 3,000 feet. Rains are expected to pass on eastward by tomorrow evening.

Service Station Dealers Plan Shutdown Vote

Independent service station owners were to vote this afternoon on whether to shut down to emphasize their plight to the public and possibly bring pressure on the federal government to change fuel allocation systems.

Art Baptiste, president of the Independent Service Station Association, which represents 150 dealers in Marin County, said the vote was to be taken at a general meeting of independent dealers in South San Francisco.

Main complaint is that company-owned stations and high-volume operators along freeways are getting gas, while independent and neighborhood stations — which make up 97 per cent of the stations in California — are being forced to close for lack of fuel.

Attack On Energy And Inflation Problems Called For By Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon declared that "one year of Watergate is enough" in his State of the Union address and challenged Congress instead to focus its attention on solving the energy crisis and inflation. He vowed to remain in office.

In a hard-hitting 45-minute speech to a joint session of Congress and a broadcast audience of millions of Americans last night, Nixon dramatically asserted his intention to remain in the Presidency despite inroads of the scandal on his administration.

"I want you to know that I have no intention whatever of walking away from the job that the people elected me to do," the President said as his Republican supporters loudly applauded in the House chamber.

Nixon also pledged to cooperate with the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry, but indicated that he may refuse to turn over White House documents and Watergate tapes on grounds of executive privilege.

"There is only one limitation," Nixon said. "I will follow the precedent that has been followed ... by every president from George Washington of never doing anything that weakens the office of the President of the United States ..."

Nixon's address also was highlighted by a surprise announcement that friendly Arab leaders had agreed to hold an "urgent meeting in the immediate future" to discuss lifting the embargo against oil shipments to the United States.

But he said resumption of the Middle East oil flow would only

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

UAW Urges Imported Car Quotas

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers union has called for quotas on imported cars, warning that unemployment in some sections of the auto industry is worse than at any time since the Depression.

Woodcock

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said yesterday a conservative estimate is that more than 100,000 auto workers have lost their jobs already — about 15 per cent of the U.S. auto work force. He said imports must be controlled to protect American jobs, a new position for the liberal union which has always protested any form of protectionism.

"The temporary quotas will help preserve some auto workers' jobs and will, therefore, not only alleviate human suffering, but maintain purchasing power so sorely needed to keep the economy from sagging further," the union said in its first major statement since the auto sales slump began.

But General Motors Corp. the world's largest auto company, said a quota system would solve no problems . . . "The reduction of barriers to world trade and investment is essential to raising living standards and employment, both at home and abroad."

Rain Continues

BRISBANE, Australia (UPI) — Heavy rain deluged Brisbane today, catching hundreds of thousands of persons with household goods spread out on their lawns to dry after some of the worst flooding in Australia's history.

The goods laid out to dry had been salvaged from thousands of inundated houses and businesses.

The Queensland state government was under strong pressure for a full public investigation into the flood devastation. Parliamentary opposition leader Jack Houston demanded declaration of an immediate state of emergency including interim price controls.

Uprising Crushed

LA PAZ (UPI) — The government of Gen. Hugo Banzer reported a week-old peasant uprising in central Bolivia crushed today following a bloody, day-long drive against the rebels by troops, armored cars and jet fighters.

Banzer's right-wing government also claimed to have broken up an alleged leftist military plot, partly directed from abroad, and said the ringleader, a former Bolivian army commander, was in hiding.

An estimated 6,000 peasants launched the rebellion Friday, blocking a series of key, east-west highways after Banzer's regime let merchants increase food prices up to 150 per cent.

Military sources said troops backed by armored cars and jet planes yesterday easily forced the peasants, armed with old rifles and scythes, from major roadblocks in the province.

New IRS Threats

BELFAST (UPI) — The Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army today threatened to attack British interests in the Irish Republic unless four imprisoned members are transferred from Britain to Northern Ireland.

In a statement issued in Dublin, the Provisionals claimed responsibility for yesterday's wave of vehicle hijackings and hoax bombs in the Irish capital and warned that future suspect bombs should be treated as genuine and not hoaxes.

The statement said unless four hunger-striking IRA members were transferred from British jails to Ulster "no British interest in Ireland can be considered safe from possible IRA action."

Promises Aid

MIAMI (UPI) — Soviet Communist Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev has promised technical aid to enable Cuba to search for new petroleum resources, according to Havana Radio broadcasts monitored here today.

The reports said the Soviet assistance would be part of an intensified "scientific exchange" among all Soviet states which includes not only petroleum research but also agriculture and medicine.

Brezhnev is in the fourth day of a weeklong visit to Cuba.

River Threatens

VICKSBURG, Miss. (UPI) — The Army Corps of Engineers said yesterday it is preparing for the worst as the rain-fed Mississippi River steadily rises.

Maj. Gen. Charles Noble, president of the Mississippi River Commission and division engineer for the lower Mississippi River, indicated there is a strong possibility of another major flood this year on the lower Mississippi.

Engineers reported that the bloated Mississippi and its tributaries have flooded more than three million acres in seven states and forced the evacuation of some 700 families in Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Defends Strategy

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Defense attorney Percy Foreman says James Earl Ray pleaded guilty to killing civil rights leader Martin Luther King to avoid the death penalty —not because his defense was compromised.

Ray, now serving a 99-year sentence in the Tennessee state penitentiary, has won a rehearing on an appeal of his conviction on the claim Foreman coerced the guilty plea.

"I thought he would be given the death penalty if the case went to a jury," Foreman said yesterdays.

Paper Claims Israel Pirated Suez City Industrial Plants

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram reported today that withdrawing Israeli troops pirated entire industrial plants from Suez City and took them to Israel, but indications in both Egypt and Israel were that the reported thefts were not affecting the disengagement agreement.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, addressing a meeting of Jewish fund raisers in Tel Aviv, said he believes Egypt is honoring its military disengagement agreement with Israel and will go on to rehabilitate the Suez Canal and the ruined cities along its banks.

The Dayan statement coincided with an Egyptian government announcement that President Anwar Sadat will meet Mashhour Ahmed Mashhour, chairman of the Suez Canal Authority, later this week to discuss plans for clearing and deepening the waterway.

Egyptian officials earlier said the canal, which has been closed since the 1967 war, could be cleared and made ready for navigation in six months.

Resumption of the Geneva Peace conference, opening of the Suez Canal and other moves toward a Middle East peace apparently depended on diplomats reaching an accord between Israel and Syria on a troop disengagement agreement for the Golan Heights.

Cairo reports today said Syria had restated its demands for total Israeli withdrawal from all captured Syrian territory; Al Ahram reported that Israel has proposed withdrawing only from certain positions in the Golan Heights without mentioning a specific line.

The negotiations were being carried out in Cairo with Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi conferring frequently with U.S. Ambassador-designate Herman Eilts. Eilts conveyed to Fahmi Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's "thoughts" on the question of a Syrian-Israeli disengagement, and Fahmi apparently was acting as a go-between with Damascus.

Prime Minister Golda Meir said yesterday Israel was prepared to give back all Syrian territory captured during last October's Middle East War once troop pullback talks begin with Damascus.

She insisted, however, on Syria providing a list of Israeli prisoners and giving assurances the captives were being well treated.

$8.3 Million Spent On Air Board Smog Studies

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Air Resources Board has spent $8.3 million since 1970 on 61 research projects in its battle against smog.

In a report to the legislature on the three-year history of its vast research program, the board yesterday said it sifted through 400 research proposals before selecting the 61 projects. Thirty-five of the projects already are completed.

The projects include Vitamin E's healing effects on lungs damaged by air pollutants, contribution of freeway traffic to smog, development of techniques and devices to accurately measure pollutants, and studies of respiratory diseases of school children in Southern California.

The state-financed projects were broken down into seven categories. The categories and the number of projects and the amount spent in each include:

Motor vehicle emissions, 11 projects costing $1.3 million; stationary sources, 1 project at $300,000; air pollution effects, 17 projects at $1.4 million; atmospheric chemistry, 7 projects at $3.7 million; instrumentation and analysis, 10 projects at $533,201; agricultural burning, 6 projects at $164,386; and pollution forecasting, 9 projects at $776,003.

The research projects, the report said, "contain a tremendous amount of information. A thorough analysis of the data will necessarily extend over a period of years."

Annoyed Judge Dismisses Charges Against Hughes

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Stock manipulation charges against billionaire recluse Howard Hughes were thrown out of court yesterday by an annoyed federal judge who called the grand jury case against Hughes the worst he had seen.

"In all my experience," said U.S. District Judge Bruce Thompson, "this is the worst criminal pleading I've ever encountered.

"It would be a perversion of justice to require any of the defendants to go to trial under the indictment."

Hughes, who did not appear in court, and four others had been indicted by a federal grand jury for alleged stock manipulation and harassment to drive prices down before Hughes purchased Air West, an airline, several years ago.

While government attorneys urged the court to issue an arrest warrant to extradite Hughes, who has been in hiding almost 20 years and now lives in the Bahamas, the billionaire's attorneys argued successfully that the indictments were without substance.

"There isn't the remotest sign of anything unlawful," said Hughes attorney Moses Lasky of San Francisco. "The indictment fails to state the essential elements of a criminal offense."

The judge agreed, saying the indictment was remiss in listing specific facts and failed to adequately arise the defendants of the charges they would be facing.

But U.S. Attorney DeVoe Heaton said he planned to go back to the grand jury for another try at indicting Hughes and four others on the same charges.

"If we deem it necessary," he said, "We'll do more investigation. The arguments of counsel and the comments of the judge indicated that we did not have sufficient facts in the indictment. If defense counsel wants facts, they will be in the next indictment."

At the opening of the session yesterday, carried over from last Friday when Hughes failed to show up for arraignment, a document signed by Hughes was filed stating three attorneys would represent him in the case.

Judge Is Polishing Subpoena For Nixon

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer wants to make sure his subpoena on President Nixon is "just right" so he's taking his time with it.

Ringer is drawing up the first state court subpoena ever for a president, and only the third by any court in the history of the country. No president has ever been compelled by subpoena to give personal testimony.

The judge does not plan to sign the subpoena until sometime next week, Ringer's clerk, Larry Fidler, told newsmen yesterday.

"It is rather complicated getting all those forms together in the proper way and making sure everything is just right," Fidler said.

Ringer granted the subpoena at the request of lawyers for John Ehrlichman, the former top Nixon aide who was forced to resign in the Watergate scandal. Ehrlichman is awaiting trial here in April on charges of burglary, conspiracy and perjury for allegedly giving the orders that led to the Ellsberg burglary.

He is charged, along with former White House aides G. Gordon Liddy and David Young, with responsibility for a break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist by the White House "plumbers" squad during the investigation of Ellsberg for leaking the Pentagon Papers.

The defendants maintained they were acting as federal police officers, and so cannot be found guilty of burglary, but they need Nixon's testimony to back up their defense.

The judge agreed, noting that according to Nixon's public statements, Nixon took responsibility for ordering the formation of the plumbers and the investigation of Ellsberg and put Ehrlichman in charge.

The White House said yesterday that Nixon will "respectfully decline to appear on constitutional grounds," the separation of the executive and judicial powers. Attorney General William Saxbe said he would fight the subpoena, on the grounds that it would set a bad precedent that would have future presidents at the mercy of subpoenas from judges throughout the country, down to "justices of the peace."

END OF A CHASE

A high speed chase by Novato police ended yesterday when this car, reportedly stolen by two Novato youths aged 14 and 15, skidded about 400 feet down an embankment at Highways 101 and 37 and overturned at 3:40 p.m. One youth was booked at juvenile hall for auto theft and being a runaway; another was cited for auto theft and being a runaway. Three passengers were released. Officers said the car, stolen in Sonoma Tuesday, was spotted going 75 miles an hour along Sunset Boulevard, failed to stop when pursued and was traveling at about 75 miles an hour before it went out of control when the driver attempted to drive up the Highway 37 offramp.

Corte Madera Open Space Plan Element Is Approved

Pleased with the work of its planning consultants, the Corte Madera Planning Commission has approved the conservation and open space element of the town's proposed general plan.

Commissioners endorsed the element by a 4-0 vote Tuesday night (Commissioner William Collier absent) and sent it on to the town council.

The plan was prepared by planning consultants Sedway-Cooke of San Francisco.

"They (commissioners) were quite pleased with it and directed staff to write a letter expressing that to the consultant," said zoning administrator William McBride.

He said commissioners scrutinized the element document page by page and paragraph by paragraph but made only minor changes in wording.

The open space and conservation element calls for purchasing land in the town's planning area to supplement the "relatively few" parks and recreation areas in southern and central Marin.

It recommends that the property be bought with general obligation bonds, but says the town could use county, state and federal funds, special assessment districts and redevelopment financing as alternate funding sources.

Recommended as the best areas for acquisition are an 11-acre salt marsh along Paradise Drive, an 8.7-acre site west of All Faits Church, the Muzzi property filled lands, Heerdt marsh filled lands, two areas along Corte Madera Creek, Menke Park near the center of town and 28.5 acres of undeveloped land near the Koch luggage plant.

The town has been unable to issue building permits since Dec. 31 because it did not meet the state deadline for approving the conservation and open space element of its general plan.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels said the town council will set a public hearing on the document at its meeting Feb. 18.

The hearing could be March 4 he said.

New Arrest In Synanon Tape Theft

Twilver Tenola Earle, 25, of San Francisco, surrendered himself to Synanon officials and, after questioning by investigators for the Marin District Attorney's office, was booked into jail on suspicion of burglary.

Held without bail, Earle was due to be arraigned today in Marin Municipal Court.

Joshua W. Thomas, assistant district attorney, said his office still is looking into the Synanon theft of one year ago and may file charges against other persons.

Thomas said Earle is suspected of having entered Synanon offices and taken some 55 tapes while a second man, George Gilbert Faucette, 61, of Woodacre, waited in a car.

Faucette faces a preliminary hearing Feb. 14 in Municipal Court, and Thomas said he will attempt to have his case combined with that of Earle.

Synanon has charged that Faucette and Earle took the tape recordings to aid the San Francisco Examiner in defending itself against a $32 million libel suit filed by Synanon.

Faucette was employed by the Examiner's attorneys when the burglary occurred and still remains on the payroll, according to Synanon.

Mayors, Councilmen Delay Growth Policy

The Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen, last night again debated a proposed growth control ordinance to limit future residential development in the county, but postponed action on the matter.

Discussion of the county measure, which would create growth control boards to carry out the policies of the Marin County General Plan, had ended in a similar fashion when city officials wrestled with the matter last month.

Action on the measure was put over to Feb. 27 after a move by Tiburon Mayor Branwell Fanning to flatly oppose the growth control boards failed.

Fanning's motion died when Ross Town Councilman Roy Farrington Jones received approval of a substitute motion postponing any action for 30 days.

Council president John A. Miskimen said city officials also will study a San Rafael proposal that growth policies used in Santa Clara County be considered for adoption by Marin. The Santa Clara plan, Miskimen said, requires that unincorporated areas be annexed to existing cities before development is allowed to proceed outside city limits.

Miskimen said about 90 officials packed last night's meeting at the Caprice restaurant in Tiburon.

In other action, the group endorsed pending legislation requiring all bottles to be returnable, he said.

The agency appointed Mill Valley Mayor Jean Barnard to the Comprehensive Health Planning Council and reappointed Fairfax Town Administrator Robert E. Crowe to a seat on the traffic coordinating council of the Metropolitan Transit Commission.

The group deadlocked 5-5 on an appointment to the Marin County Transit District board, after splitting between San Rafael Councilman Jack G. Nixon and Ross Mayor Fred Allen. San Anselmo abstained from the vote.

Meeting Tonight

San Rafael's Open Space Advisory Committee, charged with recommending lands for open space acquisition, will hold its first meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in city hall, according to the city administration.

Alioto Resigns Air Board Post

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph Alioto has resigned from the Bay Area Pollution Control District and appointed Supervisor Al Nelder to replace himself.

Nelder will finish out a term that ends May 31 and is expected to be reappointed.

In July, 1972, Alioto appointed himself to replace Supervisor Dianne Feinstein as San Francisco's representative on the smog board.

TROUBLED — Using a screwdriver to open a can of cold beans, Connie Kean, 14, of San Rafael, enacts the role of runaway teen-ager who has found a temporary home in an abandoned shack. Such "mildly delinquent" behavior in youngsters can lead to further trouble or to a change in life-style through constructive programs, many of which involve parental help, according to experts.

STATE

ease the crisis, and pressed Congress for swift approval of emergency legislation, including standby authority for gasoline rationing, to cope with long range shortages.

Predicting that the nation could "break the back of the energy crisis" in 1974, Nixon also vowed to do everything in his power to avoid gasoline rationing.

He termed energy the "highest priority" problem facing Congress but also dwelt heavily on the "difficult period" the economy is passing through.

Inflation, he said, could be checked if Congress cooperates in holding down government spending. "There will be no recession in the United States," he promised.

In a separate 22,000-word document, Nixon outlined 10 major legislative goals for this year and disclosed that the federal budget for fiscal 1975 would total a record $304.4 billion.

But he said no new tax increases would be sought to make up for an expected $9.4 billion deficit for the year starting July 1.

Most of his legislative proposals were retreads but he did unveil his long comprehensive, $40 billion-a-year plan for national health insurance with private coverage to be financed mostly by employer-worker payroll premiums.

He appeared to be signaling his intention to fight over the health program by scathingly referring to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's more encompassing plan as "the wrong approach" which would put health care "under the heavy hand of government" and cost $80 billion to $100 billion.

As for welfare reform, Nixon urged Congress "to join me in mounting a major new effort to replace the discredited present welfare system with one that works," but he failed to make any new concrete proposals to tackle the problem.

Nixon said spending for national defense must increase. The Pentagon has asked for a $92 billion in 1974, roughly a third of the total budget.

In his spoken address, he broad-brushed recommendations on improving education, transportation, the environment and communities, but approached them in more detail in his written document.

He disclosed that he had ordered a Cabinet-level review this year of both government and industry practices as they relate to invasion of privacy.

The proposal appeared to stem from the electronic eavesdropping equipment seized with the Watergate burglars and "the plumbers" —the secret surveillance group Nixon initiated to plug news leaks from within the administration that allegedly involved electronic eavesdropping.

Nixon also mentioned "abuses" in the 1972 election campaign and said he would recommend campaign reform and proposals to "clean up" the federal election process.

Nixon also made the following points:

The Federal Government will spend $10 billion in federal funds over the next five years to spur energy research and development.

He will urge a $2.3 billion outlay by Congress to give local officials new flexibility in federal community development funds.

He will send Congress in the near future a proposal to double the federal commitment for public transportation.

Man Given Three Years In LSD Sale

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Larkspur man has been sentenced to three years in federal prison after pleading guilty to a charge of selling LSD to a federal agent in San Rafael in 1971.

Bradley Harris Saicheck, 26, was sentenced in U.S. District Court by Judge William T. Sweigert. He changed his plea from innocent to guilty last Sept. 28, before a trial in the case.

Saicheck was arrested in Larkspur Sept. 4 for failing to keep a federal court appearance date in 1971 on the LSD charge. At the time of his arrest, he was free on bail on other drug charges filed by Larkspur police Aug. 14.

Investigators said Saicheck also had used the aliases of Justin Bradley Harris, Christopher Harris and Justin Bradley Saicheck.

'No Merit' To Reeves Complaint

The Marin County District attorney's office has concluded there is no merit to a complaint filed by Alan F. Reeves, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Fifth Congressional District, against one of his opponents.

Reeves had claimed that Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, is violating the state election code by retaining his position as state party chairman while running for the nomination.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Edward Turrico told the Independent-Journal today he found there was "no merit to the claimed violation." Reeves filed the same complaint with the district attorney's office in San Francisco, but Turrico said the San Francisco office had decided the Marin office had jurisdiction over the matter.

Nothing in the code barred Burton from running, Turrico said. In any event, he noted, Burton is taking a leave of absence as chairman until after the June primary election.

Storm Due In Ski Areas

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A new storm was moving into the Sierra Nevada today, causing poor weather conditions at most ski resorts. Several areas reported high winds.

Conditions as reported by the California State Automobile Association at 10 a.m.:

Highway 89: Alpine Meadows, 6-8 ½ feet total, 100 per cent groomed slopes, good to very good conditions; Homewood, 3-4 feet total, good to very good on hard pack, one quad-chair, one double chair and surface lifts; North Star, trace of new snow, 2 ½ foot base, good conditions on hard pack, all facilities operating.

Highway 50: Heavenly Valley, 2-8 foot base, fair to good on hard pack, 11 lifts; Sierra Ski Ranch, 5-10 ½ feet total, 100 per cent groomed, good conditions on hard pack.

Highway 88: Kirkwood Meadows, seven foot base, good to very good on hard pack, four chairs, one rope; Silver Basin, 6-7 feet total, good on hard pack, all facilities operating.

Highway 4: Bear Valley, 3-8 feet total, 100 per cent groomed, good to very good on hard pack, five lifts; Mt. Reba, good to very good on hard pack, five lifts.

Bridge Leaper's Body Not Found

Coast Guardsmen searched waters beneath the bridge for 90 minutes but failed to recover the body of David Arnold Newell of Walnut Creek, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Newell's 1972 Ford was found abandoned in an eastbound lane of the bridge at 3:45 p.m., the highway patrol reported.

Investigators said Newell's wallet containing cash, a check and credit cards had been left inside the auto. The man's wife told officers she did not know her husband's whereabouts and could offer no reason why he would take his life, officers said.

OBITUARIES

HELEN HANEY

A memorial service for Helen E. Haney, former Mill Valley resident and a retired schoolteacher, will be tomorrow at 3 p.m. at Russell and Gooch Funeral Home in Mill Valley.

Mrs. Haney, 80, died Tuesday at a San Francisco hospital following a long illness. She was a native of California.

For many years she taught in the Los Angeles School District. Her husband, the late Ralph Haney, was a time clerk for the Santa Fe Railroad.

She and her husband lived in San Francisco before moving to Mill Valley where they lived on Tamalpais Avenue for many years. He died in 1969. Three years ago, she returned to San Francisco.

Survivors include a sister, Mabel M. Smith of Manhattan Beach, Los Angeles County, and several nieces.

Burial will be private. The family has asked that memorial gifts be made to the Marin City Boys Club, 640 Drake Avenue, Marin City.

JENNIE WILSON

A Mass of the Christian Burial for Jennie Wilson, 65-year resident of Marin, will be tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Mill Valley.

Mrs. Wilson, 84, died Tuesday at a San Francisco hospital following a long illness. She had lived in Mill Valley for many years and then moved to a local convalescent hospital about five years ago.

She was born in Maine and moved to California at the age of 4.

Her husband, Daniel T. Wilson, was a carpenter for Marinship Building. He died in 1961.

Survivors include a niece and a nephew.

Private entombment will be at Sunset Mausoleum in El Cerrito. The Rosary will be said today at 8 p.m. at Russell and Gooch Funeral Home in Mill Valley.

DOUGLAS STEFFES

Private funeral for Douglas A. Steffes of Fairfax was held yesterday in San Francisco.

Steffes, 53, died Tuesday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

Steffes was born and reared in San Francisco. He served in the Army during World War II and had lived in Marin County for the past 20 years. His home was at 45 Olema Drive.

He was a member of the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

Steffes is survived by his wife, Doris J. Steffes of the home and his mother, Grace Steffes of San Francisco.

Burial was at Cypress Lawn Cemetery, Colma.

KATHERINE H. BUTLER

Katherine H. Butler of San Anselmo, longtime Marin County resident, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

She was a native of California and moved to San Anselmo as a young woman. The family home is at 43 San Rafael Avenue. She was a member of the Holy Family Guild.

Mass of the Christian Burial will be said at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo. Rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

LEIF FORSMANN

The coroner's office reported that when Forsmann did not show up for work, police went to his residence at 42 Edwards Avenue and found him. Friends said he may have died of a heart attack.

Forsmann, 45, was born and reared in San Francisco. He spent many years as a seaman and then settled in Sausalito and became a claims manager for Pacific Far East Lines in San Francisco.

He is survived by a brother, Kjell Forsmann of Lafayette.

Funeral will be Saturday at 1 p.m. at Russell and Gooch Funeral Home in Mill Valley. Cremation will be private. The family has asked that memorial gifts be sent to a favorite charity.

The Question Of Correctional System

Although there are exceptions, everyone who deals with young offenders sees a recurring pattern in the family lives of many:

A one-parent family.

A family in which one or both parents are alcoholics.

A family in which the father, because of illness, lack of ability or other reasons, has failed in his role as breadwinner.

One study of delinquent teenagers in Missouri in the mid-1960s showed young criminals usually come from homes dominated by mothers.

This abnormal home life often starts a young person, particularly a boy, on a path of crime because ordinary, accepted means of self-satisfaction are closed to him.

While not all of the conclusions of this study — which dealt with slum-bred teen-agers apply to Marin County, there are enough similarities to prove useful to anyone investigating juvenile delinquency locally.

According to James B. Soetaert, chief deputy probation officer, current thinking now attributes most juvenile problems to the relationship between parent and child, which could lead to delinquency in an intact as well as a broken home.

"Peer influence is also extremely important and in some cases has more to do with the behavior of the child than parental influence," Soetaert said.

The trouble with blaming the parents for every bad child, besides often being incorrect, is that the parents then cannot be used in a program to return the youngster to the mainstream of acceptable behavior, he said.

Although juvenile officials sometimes have no choice but to remove a child from his home, the court or the probation department "is a poor substitute for parental care," and the ultimate goal must be to reunite the family and provide counseling to eliminate the improper behavior, he said.

If a child is showing mildly improper behavior such as occasionally running away, it is important not to feed the flames of his disobedience, experts say.

The runaway who hears nothing but criticism from parents, school and probation workers is encouraged to think of himself as a failure and to commit even more serious violations, said Mary T. Grove, deputy Marin public defender.

Many problem children feel unloved, need attention and "want to be treated as adults, even though they're immature," Miss Grove said.

Plans For Home Draw Protesters

A standing-room-only crowd of residents of Reedland Woods in Tiburon showed up to protest against the plans for a home being considered by the Tiburon Board of Design Review.

Jean Ellingsen, planning secretary, said that the house to be built by developer Merritt Bitz at 3 Via Capistrano and would be served by a narrow private driveway which already services two homes.

According to Mrs. Ellingsen, residents living on the driveway think that another home there will create too much auto congestion. Neighbors living below the home site object that developing the steep lot will cause erosion and heavy drainage onto their properties.

After a two-and-one-half hour discussion Tuesday on the item, the board continued it to a special meeting Monday at 6:30 p.m. at city hall where the project's architect Ronald Glander will outline plans for an auto turnaround near the home which could eliminate traffic problems and will give suggestions for landscaping to control erosion.

Novaton, 73, Critical From Pistol Wound

Hettrich of 35 Carmel Drive, Apt. 131, was in critical condition after the shooting, but Marin General Hospital refused to disclose his condition at midmorning.

Officers said Hettrick was discovered bleeding from the wound at 12:30 a.m. Officers were called to the home by a neighbor, Adeline Manning of Apt. 132, who heard the shot.

Hettrich, who had been under doctor's care, left a note saying he couldn't stand the pain any longer. A .32-caliber pistol was lying by his feet, police reported.

said he was "not at all surprised. I've thought for a long time the military would never in the final analysis give up Hamilton Air Force Base. There's too big an investment out there."

Ruegg said "it's quite obvious that Marin Forts Cronkhite and Baker are on the way out," and military use of Hamilton property would be the best use.

The city has postponed for 30 days a plan to hire a consulting firm to prepare a study on use of "excess" land at the base. Ruegg said if there is no excess land there will be no reason for a study.

charges went off, but caused only minor damage to storage tanks. A resulting fire was brought under control quickly and no-one was injured. Tay said explosives experts later found eight more two-kilogram (4.4 pound) plastic charges planted on the island near refining facilities.

Police said the terrorists then hijacked the Shell ferryboat Laju, seized six hostages and headed for international waters. All six hostages were believed Singapore citizens.

Bill Defeated

A headline appearing on page 10 of yesterday's Independent-Journal was incorrect in saying that a bill to ban "strikers" is defeated. It should have read: bill beaten on banning strikebreakers.

Two Language Bills Dropped

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Two bills requiring certain legal documents to be printed in Spanish as well as English have been dropped by their author because of opposition.

Both were introduced last year by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

One, AB 912, would have required that all summonses and subpoenas be printed in both languages. Bagley's staff said opposition came from the legal profession on the grounds the requirement would be too costly.

The other, AB 939, would have required contracts for the sale of consumer goods and services to be printed in Spanish. Retailers opposed the measure.

Both died without action in the Assembly Judiciary Committee.

Energy Bill Clears Test In Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gof. Ronald Reagan would hold czar-like powers to ease fuel shortages and to take other steps to curb the energy crisis under legislation advancing to the Assembly today.

With the basic support of the governor, the bill (SB1479) by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, cleared the Senate yesterday on a bipartisan 27-5 vote, the bare minimum required.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, voted for the bill.

During the brief debate, Alquist said he shared the concerns of lawmakers about the validity of the energy crisis.

But he added, "I don't think there is any question about the fact that gas stations are closed on Sunday.

The bill would centralize energy planning and coordination in Reagan's office, giving him power to allocate fuel, curb excessive nighttime lighting, ban new power or gas connections and establish priorities for power usage.

Film Pioneer Samuel Goldwyn Dies

Goldwyn died during the night at his home where he had been under the care of a nurse.

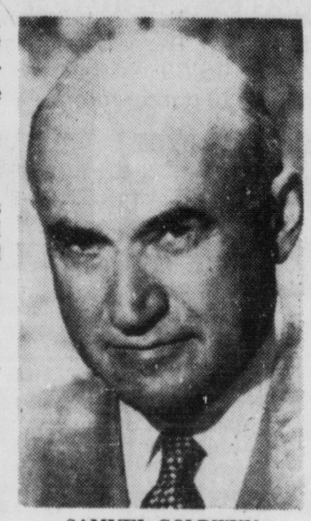
He was released earlier this month from St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica where he had been under treatment for an undisclosed ailment for several weeks.

Goldwyn who helped found three studios —MGM, Paramount and Goldwyn Studios — was incapacitated for the past half-dozen years, the result of a stroke.

In November, 1970, Goldwyn turned control of his motion picture empire over to his wife, Frances. He was then 88 and ailing.

Medical statements attached to the petition indicated he had suffered from cerebral thrombosis and arterial sclerosis since March of 1968.

At that time, the value of his estate was put at $19.7 million and his yearly income at $650,000. Mrs Goldwyn had been active in her husband's business since 1934.



SAMUEL GOLDWYN
Rose to fame, riches

From the time he struck out on his own at the age of 11, making his way from the ghetto where he was born in Warsaw, Poland, to America, Goldwyn was an independent in thought and action. He remained independent through the stormy years which saw him rise from a $3-a-week glovemaker to multimillionaire in the movie industry which he helped found.

He became interested in movie-making when he dropped into a nickelodeon on Broadway to watch a five-minute comedy reel.

He talked his brother-in-law, Jesse L. Lasky, into forming a movie production company with capital of $20,000. Goldwyn and Lasky sent a young friend, Cecil B. DeMille, then a playwright, to Hollywood to take advantage of year-round sunshine.

Four years later the fledgling company became the $25 million Famous Players-Lasky Corp. This company later became Paramount Pictures. In 1918, Goldwyn organized the Goldwyn Pictures Corp., which later became the giant Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. But he withdrew to become an ownermember of United Artists Corporation with Joseph M. Schenck, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin and D.W. Griffith.

He brought to the screen such figures as Lionel Barrymore, Geraldine Farrar, Irene Rich, Lewis Stone, Constance Bennett, Ronald Colman, Vilma Banky, Joan Blondell, Helen Hayes, Eddie Cantor, Loretta Young, Melvyn Douglas, Merle Oberon and Frederic March.

He spotted a lanky cowboy extra on the set one day and made Gary Cooper a star in "The Winning of Barbara Worth."

Goldwyn was divorced from his first wife, Blanche Lasky, in 1915. Ten years later he married Frances Howard, a New York actress. They had a son, Samuel Jr., born in 1926.

He had little formal education although he attended night school during his early glovemaking days. He smiled when confronted with so-called "Goldwynisms" for which he became famous.

The one for which he was best known was his remark, said to have been made when he refused to join an association, "Gentlemen, include me out."

Others:

"I can tell you in two words what's wrong with that picture: im-possible."

"I've been laid up with intentional flu."

When a director described a movie script as "too caustic," he was supposed to have replied, "To hell with the cost, if it's a good picture, we'll make it."

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Bagley Bill To Senate On Protection From Computers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Without a dissenting vote, the Assembly has passed legislation designed to protect Californians from the uncontrolled spread of information about their personal lives through computer data banks.

The measure (AB2656) by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, of San Rafael, a Republican candidate for state controller, was sent to the Senate yesterday on a 71-0 vote. There was no debate.

It would require computer operators who deal with personal information, such as insurance or credit records, to file annually with the state, describing the "nature and purpose" of the system. It also requires security at computer plants.

Persons about whom records are kept would have the right to correct any inaccurate or outdated information, plus would be able to inquire and find out if they are the subject of data collection.

RENTER RELIEF

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Renters in California who are 62 or older would get $48 million in renter relief under legislation clearing the Assembly.

The Assembly voted 60-5 yesterday to approve the bill by Assemblyman Leo McCarthy, D-San Francisco.

McCarthy said he thought chances of the Senate approving the bill were weak. He said the Reagan administration opposes the legislation.

DAMAGE SYSTEM

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill changing the method of determining how much damages will be awarded victims of automobile accidents was passed yesterday by the Assembly on a 50-3 vote and sent to the Senate.

The bill (AB1666) by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, DSacramento, would establish a comparative negligence system in which damages would be awarded according to how much the victim contributed to the cause of the mishap.

DISLIKES DST

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A resolution urging Congress to put the nation back on standard time was proposed yesterday by Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego.

Mills said the expected energy savings resulting from Congress authorizing Daylight Savings Time on a year-round basis "has not occurred."

"The only significant result has been inconvenience and pre-dawn deaths of children who must go to school in early morning darkness," Mills said, referring to children struck by cars.

Chinese Release American Captive

HONG KONG (UPI) — Chinese authorities today released a smiling, bearded American civilian who was captured a week and a half ago in a bloody two-day battle between China and South Vietnam for the disputed Paracel Islands.

GERALD EMIL KOSH
Reported to be ailing

"Thank you," Gerald Emil Kosh, 27, of Lafayette Hill, Pa., said as he walked to freedom through the British colony's Lo Wu frontier crossing, 15 miles north of Hong Kong.

The blond-haired American, looking pale, refused to answer newsmen's questions after his release. He was accompanied by five South Vietnamese prisoners, including one who hobbled on crutches to a waiting British ambulance.

All six men wore dark blue tunics and trousers, the traditional Chinese workers' garb. All of the men carried black overnight bags.

Kosh, a civilian employe of the U.S. Embassy's Defense Attache's office, was on Pattle Island in the Paracel chain when Chinese forces overran the South Vietnamese with heavy air, land and sea attacks on Jan. 20.

The South Vietnamese reported losses of 19 killed, 43 wounded and 101 missing in the attack. China said it captured 48 Vietnamese prisoners.

Kosh was reportedly suffering from hepatitis in captivity. He boarded a special U.S. Air Force C9 Nightingale ambulance jetliner and flew to Clark Air Base in the Philippines.

The Vietnamese, who appeared to be middle-aged troops, boarded a special Air Vietnam jet for Saigon.

Heavy Quake Would Hurt South Most

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A major earthquake occurring along a heavily-populated 50-mile stretch of the Southern California coast would have a more devastating effect than a stronger tremblor on the better known San Andreas Fault, according to a federal study.

The Newport-Inglewood fault, running from Beverly Hills to Newport Beach, would prove more fatal with a 7.5 Richter scale reading than would an 8.3 earthquake on the San Andreas Fault, which runs northwest to southeast further inland, the study shows.

The Los Angeles Times today reported results of the soon-to-be-released study by the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration.

The study concluded that the death toll from tremblors on those faults would vary according to time of day and on which fault the earthquake occurred.

Two Are Found Guilty Of Running LSD Lab

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After five days of deliberations, a federal court jury has convicted two persons and acquitted a third of some charges stemming from the operation of an illegal LSD laboratory.

Timothy Scully, 28, of Mendocino, Calif., and Nicholas Sand, 32, of New York, were found guilty yesterday of conspiring to manufacture and sell LSD, an hallucogenic drug.

The jury of seven women and five men found Lester Friedman, 44, innocent of the conspiracy charge. However, Friedman, a chemistry professor at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, faces a possible second trial on a charge of perjury before a federal grand jury.

The jury deadlocked over charges that Scully and Sand evaded income taxes for 1969, but convicted Scully for evading 1968 taxes.

Scully and Sand, who face a maximum prison sentence of 25 years on the drug conviction, are scheduled to appear before federal Judge Samuel Conti on March 8 for sentencing. Scully, who had been free on $100,000 bond, had his bail increased to $500,000.

Virginia Picks First Black Judge

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — The Virginia General Assembly elected Willard H. Douglas, 41, the first black man to serve as a full time judge in Virginia yesterday.

Douglas will preside in juvenile and domestic relations court. He has served as an assistant commonwealth's attorney in Richmond.

The Zodiac Pens Another Letter

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The elusive Zodiac killer said in a cryptic note yesterday that he has killed 37 persons in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Police say they have only linked six slayings directly to the Zodiac, who had boasted of his crimes in previous letters to newspapers.

In a letter received yesterday by the San Francisco Chronicle, the writer identifying himself as Zodiac said the movie "The Exorcist," "was the best saterical comidy (sic) that I have ever seen."

"Ps. If I do not see this note in your paper, I will do something nasty, which you know I'm capable of doing."

Homicide inspectors said a handwriting expert has confirmed that Zodiac indeed penned the note.

Twiggy Plans Marriage Soon

LONDON (UPI) — Twiggy is getting married. A spokesman for the British model, whose real name is Lesley Hornby, said yesterday she will marry American actor Michael Witney as soon as his divorce comes through.

Twiggy, 24, and Witney, now in Malibu, first met on the set of their new film "W", Twiggy's first Hollywood role. Last year Twiggy ended her romance with Justin de Villeneuve.

No Perjury Evidence Against John Dean

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate prosecutors have "no basis for believing" former White House counsel John W. Dean III lied and have no immediate plans to charge him with perjury, an assistant to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski said today.

Assistant special prosecutor Richard Davis, appearing in federal court to argue on pretrial motions of former White House aide Dwight Chapin, volunteered the prosecutor's office's belief about Dean.

"So far as the government is concerned, based on the evidence we have now, we have no basis for believing Mr. Dean committed perjury... in any proceeding," Davis said.

"We would have no basis for bringing any charge of perjury against Mr. Dean."

Democrats Don't Believe That Watergate Will Just Go Away

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Majority leader Mike Mansfield and other leading Democrats strongly questioned today whether President Nixon's State of the Union remarks about Watergate would put an end to the problem.

They also challenged other portions of the President's nationally televised speech last night as overly optimistic, particularly on the economy.

Asked if he thought Nixon's assertion that "a year of Watergate is enough" would change the situation, Mansfield replied he thought the general picture looked "about the same."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N. C., chairman of the Senate Watergate Investigating Committee, put it more strongly: "The Watergate affair would have been over long ago if the President had been willing to let the committee have the evidence in his possession relevant to the investigation."

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., said he could understand that Nixon would "like Watergate to disappear but it won't."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said everyone wants to "put Watergate behind us" but the President is the only one "who can accelerate that result."

Mansfield, who will deliver a formal Democratic response to Nixon's State of the Union address Friday, told newsmen the President's proposed $304 billion budget was "too much" and predicted it could be cut by Congress.

"It adds to the yearly deficit," he said, "I think it can be reduced."

The White House said today, however, the speech had been well received.

Republicans generally praised the speech with few reservations. Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., a veteran of 36 years service, termed the "best one I've ever heard."

San Geronimo Density Argued

Almost 130 San Geronimo Valley residents last night debated pros and cons of proposals that 6,000 to 7,000 acres of the hillsides in the basin be rezoned to low density uses similar to much of West Marin.

The San Geronimo Valley area has been in interim zoning since last May, when the Marin County Board of Supervisors scrapped the valley's 12-year-old, higher-density master plan.

The San Geronimo Valley ad hoc planning committee and county planning staff are considering recommending RMP-.017 zoning which would permit approximately one residence per 60 acres. Zoning in the valley's three village areas would remain as is for the time being, Harvey Bragdon of the county planning staff reported.

Bragdon and Jean Berensmeier of the valley planning group reported today that residents raised three main issues at last night's town meeting:

Density (several large landowners objected to the low proposed density); the types of land uses permitted in a Residential Multiple Plan Zone, and what effect the rezoning would have on area property assessments and taxes.

Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini told the full-house audience that recent rezonings of West Marin to A-60 had no effect on taxes there, Mrs. Berensmeier reported.

Some citizens urged that a local review panel be established to watchdog all new development in the area.

Mrs. Berensmeier said the planning group will meet again, probably Wednesday, to discuss issues raised last night.

Bolinas PUD Backs Plan On Heaters

Directors of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District last night endorsed a plan by an energy committee which wants to build solar heaters and hot water heaters.

The board gave the committee permission to use a district shed to build the heaters which are proposed for use in Bolinas School, the utility district and the Bolinas Community Center.

The Committee had asked for $500 from the district for its project. But the board postponed action on the request until its meeting next Wednesday. At that time, the committee is to return with a list of items for which the funds would be spent.

Loud objections to the project were voiced by Randy Fontan, a district resident. He objected to the board granting to the committee "some of my (tax) money that I gave you for sewage."

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District board also:

ANGER — Learned that they had ruffled the feelings of some members of the Stinson Beach County Water District board by agreeing to meet with Stinson residents to see if the proposed Bolinas sewage treatment plant could be used to dispose of effluent from Stinson septic tanks. Director Paul B. Kayfetz said he had received a "very angry" telephone call from Proctor Jones, a director of the Stinson district. He said Jones objected to the Bolinas district's "butting in" on Stinson Beach business.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session, then announced it had discussed "unauthorized use of a back hoe and damage thereto" but had not resolved the matter. Charges against the operator of a district truck, involved in accident before Christmas, were also discussed and found to be without foundation, directors said.

CONSULTANT — Decided to negotiate with William J. Oswald, district consultant on the sewage project, over a requested $1,000 addition to his fee.

WATER — Voted to spend $50 to test Arroyo Honda water in order to see what kind of equipment could best be used to treat it.

FINANCE — For the third time, postponed discussion of a financial report by the district clerk predicting a $12,903 deficit by June.

Jury Debating Stab Decision

The fate of Carolyn Janice Maxwell, 30, accused of stabbing her father in a row over her change of sex, was in the hands of a Marin Superior Court jury today.

The six men and six women, who began deliberations at noon yesterday, remained sequestered this morning. But they sent for court reporter Susan Starritt to read back the testimony of John Crain, 56, Miss Maxwell's father.

Crain testified during the three-day trial that his daughter, who was born Dennis Crain but who underwent surgery to change his sex, stabbed him last October during a fight at Crain's Strawberry home. Miss Maxwell has denied the charge.

ARREST — San Rafael policeman Richard Michaelsen aims a rifle at John Gorski, manager of the San Rafael Inn on Francisco Boulevard, after reportedly Gorski fired several shots into the street from a motel room yesterday. Gorski, 52, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspecion of carrying a concealed weapon, carrying a loaded firearm and being drunk in public. No one was hurt in the incident.

More Facts On Zoning Are Wanted

Sausalito planning commissioners last night asked the planning staff for more information on six parts of the city before they consider changing the city general plan to conform with existing zoning in those areas.

They are Whiskey Springs, Cypress Ridge, an area below South Ridge, two areas along Bridgeway near Earl F. Dunphy Park and the Martin Luther King School site, according to Assistant Planner Jerry Cormack.

The city has not yet brought its general plan and zoning in conformance, despite a state-imposed deadline that it do so by Jan. 1.

Commissioners postponed until Feb. 6 review of a new zoning ordinance for the central waterfront. They set Feb. 20 for a public hearing on the kinds of uses that should be permitted in the Marinship area.

They postponed until Feb. 13 review of an environmental impact report for the proposed Schoonmaker development and until Feb. 20 consideration of a use permit for commercial enterprises in the Whiskey Springs project proposed for a 13-acre parcel near the north city limits, Cormack said.

Trio Found Brutally Slain In Mortuary

OAKLAND (UPI) — Three persons were found hacked to death today in an Oakland mortuary, one of them between the pews of the chapel.

The victims, all employees of the mortuary, were found by another employee when he arrived for work. Police said it appeared the victims, all white, were trying to escape from their assailant or assailants.

Deputy Chief Thomas Donahue of the Oakland Police Department said there was no immediate apparent motive.

The bodies were all found on the first floor in the public areas of the Albert Brown Mortuary. One, Michael Moore, a mortician trainee, was found between two pews in the chapel.

The body of Clarence Bryant, about 70, a caretaker, was found in a smalier room on the floor near some couches, Donahue said, and his wife, Doris, was found slain near a side door.

In San Francisco, police hunting the hit-and-run gunmen who selected four random victims on the streets and executed them said yesterday the killings resemble 13 other murders in recent months and they could be the work of a secret group.

"It could be anything from two people who are full of hate from misguided feelings of oppression to a splinter group from some larger organization," said Police Capt. Ernest Raabe.

Mayor Joeeph Alioto issued an appeal to avoid panic, saying, "I see no reason why citizens, because of the maximum police effort, cannot walk the streets with a feeling of security."

Novato Schools Reading Lauded

Bjorn Karlsen, a Sonoma State College reading expert, has informed the Novato Unified School District board that the district does a good job in aiding children with reading problems.

Trustees, who had given priority to improving reading in the fourth through sixth grades, held a special session Tuesday to hear suggestions on improving the reading program.

Karlsen, an author of reading tests, said the district could raise its reading test scores by working with average and above average readers on developing advanced sills, publications director Annette Conklin reported.

An Attack Of 'Finessomania' Plays Havoc With A Contract

Very few doctors have warned us about the dread disease known as finessomania. When it begins, the victim snaps his fingers in disgust after losing each finesse. After a while, the poor fellow loses not only tricks but also the energy to complain about his hard luck. This is the beginning of the end.

RUFFS HEART

South ruffed the first heart, drew two rounds of trumps and looked around for a finesse. "I'll take the club hook," he said to himself, pleased that there were so many finesses in plain sight.

The hook, or finesse, lost to the jack of clubs. Back came a heart, and South ruffed again.

LOSES TO KING

South finessed with the queen of clubs, losing to the king. Back came a third heart, and South ruffed once more.

South led a club to dummy's ace and said a short word when East showed out. Declarer then led a diamond from the dummy and finessed with the jack. This lost to the queen, and South had to lose a second diamond trick. Down one.

NO GUESS NEEDED

South should not have guessed in clubs and diamonds. His correct play is to lead diamonds after drawing trumps.

South ruffs the first heart, draws two trumps and leads a low diamond. West wins and returns a club. Declarer finesses with dummy's queen, losing to the king. Back comes a heart, and South ruffs. South gives up another diamond and can later discard dummy's ten of clubs on a good diamond. At most, he loses one club and two diamonds.

LEAD THE KING

Should should actually begin the diamonds by leading the king. If somebody has the singleton queen, this will guarantee 11 tricks. Otherwise, South is willing to lose two diamond tricks.

Full Probe Eyed On Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee has decided to seek the "unqualified" power to overrule the traditional rules of grand jury secrecy and executive privilege in its investigation of whether President Nixon should be impeached.

Republicans on the committee agreed to support the request but also said they would fight for an April 30 end to the proceedings. Both issues were to be discussed today at the committee's first open meeting since it was instructed to begin the impeachment inquiry in October.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., has set a target date of "late April or thereabouts" for a vote on whether to recommend articles of impeachment to the House, but has resisted being locked in to that date.

Republicans, who fear they have the most to lose by a dragged-out impeachment proceeding, want the subpoena resolution to require a report "on or before April 30" and say they would support an extension if lack of White House or other cooperation causes delays.

In his State of the Union address last night, Nixon promised: "I will cooperate with the committee...in any way that I consider consistent with my responsibilities." He said the only limitation would be that he could not do anything to "weaken the ability of the Presidents of the future."

The committee appeared united on the rest of the resolution drafted by special counsel Joan M. Doar, designed to give the committee unlimited subpoena power for its impeachment inquiry.

"With the power it seeks—the House was expected to vote on it next Tuesday or Wednesday —the committee could demand top secret material, private White House memoes, tapes and documents and all of the still-secret material which Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski is presenting to federal grand juries.

PETER W. RODINO

Doar's draft said the committee could demand information "as it deems necessary to such investigation, exercising in any and every case the full, original and unqualified power conferred upon the House of Representatives by the Constitution.

"Such authority includes the right to obtain the testimony of any person and to have full and complete access to any and all information and things the committee deems necessary to such investigation that are in the custody or under the control of any person, including the President or any other officer, employe or agency of the government of the United States."

It also said that "for the purpose of making such investigation, the committee is authorized to require, by subpoena or otherwise, the attendance and testimony of such witnesses in person or by affidavit or by deposition taken by counsel for the committee..."

That language, said Rep Robert F. Drinan D-Mass., could be interpreted to mean the committee could demand that Nixon appear as a witness, but he said that wasn't the intent of the committee.

Impeachment precedents have established, however, that the accused is not compelled to appear in person, although he may if he wishes. The Constitution also says a person cannot be compelled to testify against himself.

Leave Taken By Silvestri

Deputy County Counsel George J. Silvestri Jr., candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Ninth Assembly District, yesterday announced he will take a leave of absence from his job to campaign full-time.

The race "will require an increasing amount of my time and energy," he said. The leave will be effective Friday. His statement did not say whether he would continue the leave beyond June if nominated.

Silvestri's monthly salary is $1,936.

Defeat For Eight-Lane Doyle Drive

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to prevent the state Department of Transportation from widening Doyle Drive to eight lanes was approved narrowly yesterday by the Senate.

The bill, SB 147 by Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, went to the Assembly Transportation Committee on a 21-16 vote by the upper house, the bare majority needed for passage.

Opposition was led by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. He argued "the safety of all the residents of Marin County is jeopardized by the frightening accident rate along Doyle Drive. The only way to make this stretch of highway safe is to go to eight lanes because there has to be a permanent barrier to prevent head-on collisions," he declared. "The argument that Doyle Drive, if widened, would act as a catalyst for opening up San Francisco for freeways is specious," he said.

The state's $17 million plan for the San Francisco approach to the Golden Gate Bridge calls for replacing the present six 10-foot-wide lanes with eight 12-foot-wide lanes and a concrete median barrier. The roadway has been the scene of numerous accidents, the worst of which took 10 lives.

Proponents of the project argue the present roadway works as if it had eight lanes because traffic tubes are moved to provide four lanes in the direction of peak traffic. A permanent median barrier with only six lanes would cut traffic capacity by 25 per cent and kill plans to operate an exclusive bus lane against the direction of peak traffic since there would be too few lanes for a busway, they argue.

Behr's name still appeared on the bill yesterday as a coauthor. As introduced a year ago today, the bill supported the eight-lane project, but it was amended by Marks.

A spokesman for the Department of Transportation said work on plans for the project have been held up pending the Marks legislation.

Corte Madera Will Pay $13,668 Bill On Sewage

Corte Madera Sanitary District owes the Ross Valley Sanitary District $13,668 for treatment of sewage over the last three years, Corte Madera sanitary commissioners have learned.

Commission secretary Lillian Moller said commissioners were told Tuesday that the payment is due because "flow figures" on treated sewage had been misread over the period.

The Ross Valley district plant on San Quentin Peninsula is used by the Corte Madera district for treating its waste.

Mrs. Moller said that on advice of its attorney, Albert Bianchi, the commission recommended that the town council act as the sanitary district board and make the payment.

She said funds would come from the sanitary district's unappropriated reserves.

The board also recommended that the firm of Kirkwood-Bly of Santa Rosa be hired for sewer reconstruction on Chapman Drive. Kirkwood-Bly's bid of $52,985 was lowest among nine bids, Mrs. Moller said.

Chinese Plan Island Landing

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam, which lost a two-day battle with China for the Paracel Islands, has sent a task force to land on a disputed archipelago occupied by Nationalist China, military sources said today.

In Cambodia, fighting erupted today about two miles southeast of Phnom Penh near strategic Highway 1, but fell off sharply on all other war fronts.

Military sources in Saigon said 200 South Vietnamese soldiers and three ships would attempt to land tomorrow on five of the Spratly Islands, located in the South China Sea 600 miles south of the Paracels.

Taking Care Of Own Gets A New Look

Among the assorted by-products of the energy crunch may be a new look at public hiring policies.

In recent decades, rules that only local residents could work for local governments have been largely abandoned. For instance, the San Rafael city charter, adopted in 1912, required three years' residence for any city employee except teachers and administrators in the city schools. But in 1951, San Rafael voters amended that to limit the residence requirement to elected officials. (Even that has since been thrown out by the courts.)

LATELY, SOME cities and counties have been returning to residency requirements. This week, the San Francisco Board of Supervisors approved first reading of an ordinance requiring that applicants for city positions be city residents. Supervisor John J. Barbagelata, who introduced the ordinace, called it "taking care of our own first."

San Francisco has had a requirement that its employees move to the city. The new ordinance will not permit them to get city jobs first and move there afterward.

Barbagelata pointed out two reasons for such a rule: having the city do its share toward reducing unemployment, and ameliorating a tight housing situation which causes rents to keep rising.

MARIN COUNTY and its cities have the same problems: growing unemployment, and a tight housing situation with rents continually increasing.

"Environmentalists" have sought to close the door to immigration to Marin by restricting new housing construction. But at the same time, the county and its 11 cities hire largely from outside. And since rents are already high,and being forced higher by the ban on new building, the outsiders hired generally commute to their jobs.

Gasoline shortage, and rising gasoline prices, make commuting from Marin to San Francisco, and from Richmond or Vallejo or Sonoma to Marin, more difficult and expensive. Thousands of commuter cars burn a great many gallons of gasoline daily going to and from work.

Hiring outsiders for public jobs merely adds to this drain on our gasoline supply (bsides contributing to air pollution).

Yet it is noticeable that those who agitate most loudly for population controls and bans on building have little or nothing to say about the role of commuters in creating the problems they deplore.

THIS IS NOT surprising. Many of them are commuters. Others are public employees who moved here after getting on the public payroll of Marin County or one of its cities or districts.

The energy crisis is causing a lot of re-examination of what we have been doing and the way we have been living. It may contribute to the already-growing trend toward each city, county or district employing only its own residents.

"Taking care of our own" is neither a new nor a bad idea — just a long-forgotten one.

Story In A Name

The red-winged blackbird is a fairly common marsh dweller and its name is straight-forward description. However, its scientific name is a bit more romantic: Agelaius phoeniceus. Agelaius is Greek for gregarious and alludes to the bird's social nature. Phoeniceus means "deep red" in Latin, but is derived from the Greek word for "Phoenician." The root of the word comes from "to slay," thus creating a blood-red color. Doubtless, it goes back to battles in ancient history.

One-House Legislature Would Invite Expediency

By EARL G. WATERS

Under normal circumstances, one might laugh at the efforts of that small group who are bent upon reducing the state legislature to a single house.

But these are not normal times. Happenings in the national government have fostered a distrust of all government. The inexplicable "shortages" of almost everything, coupled with increasing unemployment, encourage an unhealthy urge to retaliate, to change both those in office and the ways and forms of government.

Only fools resist necessary changes. Likewise only fools support change for the sake of change itself.

But Californians, of late, have shown a growing penchant for half-baked initiative proposals. So the move to place an initiative on the ballot which would substitute a unicameral legislature for the present two-house system cannot be lightly dismissed.

TO UNDERSTAND the issue one must first have a thorough understanding of what makes for good lawmaking. The advocates of the unicameral system have as their battle cry "efficiency and economy."

Good lawmaking requires thorough research and long deliberation. It requires ample opportunities through full-scale hearings for all sides to present their views. As for economy, one might well argue the abolition of the legislature altogether, rather than just half of it.

The idea of legislation achieved by a body organized with built-in checks and balances, the two-house system, descends from parliament. It existed in the colonial states and was adopted by the states and the Congress. It has served the nation and all of the states, save one, well for two centuries.

It's very purpose is to thwart "expediency." It serves to slow down the enactment of laws. It is intended to prevent the hasty passage of new law conceived in the emotion of the moment. It seeks to avoid the tyranny of the majority, the ever-present danger of the public being momentarily turned into a mob.

Thus, the very process of legislation, introduced and screened by committees of one house and then subjected to identical review by the second house, is a slowing process which provides greater opportunity for all parties to be heard and for the cooling of public emotions as well as more careful thought by the lawmakers.

EXAMPLES OF HOW impetuous legislation originating in one house has been halted in the second house are far too frequent to cite. Conservatives and liberals, management and labor, the poor and the rich, have all been saved from bad legislation at one time or another by the fortuitous existence of getting a second chance.

One need spend but a few days observing the often cursory consideration given a legislative proposal by a committee wth only half its membership present to envision what could happen if there was only one house passing laws.

The unicameral legislature idea got its revival in recent years by former Speaker Jesse Unruh. Having achieved domination of the Assembly, he found his ambitions to rule thwarted by the Senate. Ergo, reasoned Unruh, if there was no Senate I could be king. And well he could have. And so might anyone else who comes along if there were not two houses, one to check and balance the other.

Energy Crisis Neither Phony Nor Brief; Habits Of Reckless Consumption Must Change

A conference mainly of American business executives which we have been attending gives a fair indication of the intense concerns of the business community. These men sought to be informed about the energy situation, and they listened to first-rank authorities. Here are some of the salient points, familiar perhaps, but stark:

—Any notion that the crisis is "phony" is tragically untrue. It is in many respects the most challenging economic problem many nations in the world have ever faced.

—Any notion that it will be solved by a resumed and large-scale flow of Middle Eastern oil is equally false. Indeed, such a resumption — if it aroused false confidence — might do grave harm.

—The world will never again have cheap energy in the terms it has recently enjoyed.

—The United States will not become self-sufficient in energy by 1980; indeed its need to import oil may increase steadily in this decade and might go from the present 12 per cent to perhaps 50 per cent.

—The American oil companies are in very bad public relations trouble. Not only is it difficult to justify their enormous profits, or the holding back of oil from the market to obtain higher prices, but they face stringent taxes to recapture or divert their profits and even the grim threat of nationalization or its equivalent.

"Must you be so painfully to the point?"

AGAINST THE BACKGROUND of such urgencies, there are many things Americans must do, and there are far greater challenges to other peoples, such as the Japanese who are so overwhelmingly dependent on oil. Huge societies such as the Indians have scarcely any foreign exchange with which to pay for their minimal desperate needs.

For private Americans, an earnest continuation of conservation measures is essential. And it is more than a mere stopgap. But the programs which will bring other sources of fuel into effective production are mostly very long-range. Coal may most quickly help. But it would not be nearly enough to achieve more than a modest supplement. It takes from five to 10 years to bring atomic plants into production, and they have grave problems even now.

The various exotic ways of getting energy, like fusion, shale oil, wind or sun or tides, are in no way near to providing practical and sufficient supply. They must be explored and researched, no doubt with expensive and massive programs. They are far down the road and some of them will probably never yield significant amounts of energy.

ALL THESE POINTS may seem elementary to people who have been following the energy situation closely. But there is much evidence that the general public is confused at best, cynical at worst. Its understanding of the challenge is vital. For it is ordinary people, all of us, who will have to do much of the acting in the face of a major energy revolution.

It is plain that the much-discussed change in our ways of life is essential. Economy is the watchword. It is far from adequately perceived or acted upon.

The tremendous escalation of almost all prices which the unavoidable boost in energy costs brings about may itself do much to change our consumerist practices. Unemployment is already hitting hard. Shortages are widespread. The depth of the challenge no doubt will come home to all of us.

Farther down the road, beyond the ken of most of us, is the problem of how to pay for imported gas and oil at moderately projected rates in the years ahead. One authoritative calculation expects that the United States would need to pay $108 billion a year by 1985 for imported fuel.

Such a sum could not be heaped on top of the United States' balance of payments. It could not be absorbed by the producing countries. Such looks into the future lead to total absurdity, and suggest fundamentally different arrangements will have to be worked out.

In a word: energy and the economy, now and in the years ahead, present a challenge such as the concerned nations have never before faced. It can be mastered, and in the end 20th century society may be much the better for it.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY: Letters To The I-J

County Clerk Candidate Pays Tribute To Boss

Stories of election efficiencies in the recent past were part of my announcement for candidacy to the county clerk's position. Included also in my story, however, was my tribute to outgoing county clerk, George H. Gnoss, for his openness to modern techniques which brought us our recognized success.

I made no further inferences nor mentioned any other names. It would be both difficult and a privilege to fill the shoes of our present clerk.

Body Of Child Not That Of Mother

We agree with last week's letter that every woman has the right to her life and her body. But, her decision to have an abortion involves another's life, the life of her child, not yet able to speak in his own defense before it will be surgically or chemically removed by suction, scraping and cutting or by being burned with saline solution. This child's life can be ended without his or her father's consent. The father has no legal right to protect his own child!

Who's to say that a child will be perpetually unwanted, and so should be aborted because it might be mistreated once born? Is it a logical conclusion to determine that a child should be ripped apart now before its birth rather than have him or her unloved or neglected in the future? We suggest that the writer of last week's letter check with the department of social services as well as doctors and lawyers to discover how long the waiting lists are of couples who want to adopt a baby to share their love and life with the "unwanted".

Still Insists More Prison Inspection Needed

I would like to reply to Warden Nelson's letter of Jan. 18. It is unfortunate that you did not have room or see fit to include my entire letter on Jan. 11. In it I had said that the judges, legislators and reporters be allowed to inspect every section of the prison including B Section and the management cells and not be taken on the "warden's tour" and that the men be assured that they would not be subject to beatings if they spoke to these officials.

In Mr. Nelson's letter he also mentioned Judge Joseph Wilson's ruling about the management cells upon which I would like to enlarge. He did not rule them unconstitutional but he did order that the men be released from them that particular time because the Department of Corrections was not obeying its own rules and regulations concerning these cells. The problem is there is no way of knowing if and when the department breaks its own rules except when the prisoners, who usually do not have money or attorneys, can bring suit against the authorities... The reason given for not allowing inspection is that the "fiercest" inmates are housed there. If they are labelled the fiercest, what has made them so? Could it be the impossible and unbearable living conditions that have created this tension and fierceness? Could it be that they are fighting their hardest for the human dignity to which we are all entitled? There are many questions that have to be answered.

I would like to thank Mr. Nelson for his offer to allow me to apply for the position of female correctional officer. I cannot accept, however, as I do not feel the need to have the power to control others, which is the admitted first priority of the department, unless I can see a way of improving the lives of these people and making it possible for them to have a fair chance to lead productive lives for themselves and their families.

Councilman Blinder In Pilgrim Tradition

For our Pilgrim Fathers, breaking the rules could bring anything from a dunking at the town pump to burning at the stake, the latter being for those witches that some persons claimed were doing them harm. And it wasn't even the surgeon general who made the decision. No one had rights who didn't follow the strict rules laid down by the town council.

Now a member of the San Anselmo "Town Council" wants to lay down rules for smokers (along with the editor). He states the right of the smoker stops at his nose. Willie Brown says the right of free speech stops at the Nazi. Ralph Nader says the individual's right stops when he fails to fasten the seat buckles.

Visitor Grateful For Consideration

I was crossing Fourth and C streets on the green light Jan. 21 at noon and I tripped and fell right in the middle of the street.

As clearly as I can recall, immediately a gentleman and two ladies were at my side to be of help and to check if I was hurt or could get up "under my own power." Luckily I was just shaken up and I crossed the street and stopped to "get my bearings." Then a friendly interested motorcycle policeman who had just seen the end of the incident came to see if I was unhurt and to inquire if an automobile had hit me.

To these good people and to others who must have had to wait at the intersection, I want to say a heartfelt "thank you." These expressions of kindness and consideration are what make America great, and I deeply appreciate your showing me — a stranger in distress — your friendship.

People Doctors Less Costly Than Dog Doctors

The cat owner's letter erinary prices prompted me to write this letter.

Last fall, while on a hunting trip in Northern California, "Lobo" decided to raise his status to that of fatherhood and my female beagle went along with his idea. Since I was opposed to motherhood for my beagle I returned to Marin County to have the encounter terminated by medical science. Unfortunately I returned during a three-day week end and was referred to an emergency veterinary clinic. Yes, they could do something for the plight of my dog. The cost? $10 for the office call, $10 emergency call and $5 for the injection. I declined and took my dog to the regular veterinarian after the week end was over.

During the week end I called Marin General Hospital and asked what their fee was for a tetanus shot. I was informed that it cost less than $5. If my memory serves me correctly I think it cost $1.50 to administer the shot and $1.75 for the serum. In addition I would have to have the O.K. of my doctor. I called my doctor for information and he said that he did not charge a fee when he authorized treatment over the telephone. Total cost for a medical injection into a human, $3.75. Total cost for medical injection into a dog, $25 . . .

Oh, by the way, medical science won and Lobo lost.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Jan. 31, 1964

The Marin County Board of Supervisors passed a redistricting plan which members said was only a "stopgap" measure.

By vote of 3-to-2, Marin County supervisors kept Billy D. Dobbs as county planning director. Supervisors Peter H. Behr and Byron W. Leydecker wanted to fire him.

20 YEARS AGO

Jan. 31, 1954

Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon said the Republican party was "fast committing suicide" and predicted a new party would arise to replace it.

Frank Leahy, who had suffered a heart attack during Notre Dame's football game with Texas Tech, resigned as coach of the "Fighting Irish," a position he had held since 1941 except for a two-year hiatus for military service.

CAPITOL QUIPS

Oil companies are doing so well that their critics are getting more mileage than their customers.

The U.S. Postal Service says there's no such thing as junk mail. Next they'll be telling us they don't know anyone named Occupant.

The missing 18½ minutes of tape would be easier to take if the TV analysis of it could be held to the same length of time.

Today's gloomy guess is that there's a 50-50 chance we'll need gasoline rationing — as opposed to last week's rosy report that it was 50-50 we wouldn't.

Issue Of Clergy Confidentiality May Be Headed For Top Court

By DAVID E. ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court may have to grapple with one of the most delicate of church-state questions: clergy confidentiality.

The case arose when Dr. Paul Boe, 58, director of the Division of Social Service of the American Lutheran Church, refused to answer certain questions to a grand jury investigating the seizure of Wounded Knee, S.D., by American Indian Movement activists last spring.

Boe, who spent 10 days in Wounded Knee, refused to answer some questions put to him by the grand jury — particularly about identity of people he might have seen carrying guns — on grounds an answer would violate the confidence of what he believed was a legitimate pastoral relationship.

Boe has known AIM leaders Dennis Banks and Clyde Bellecourt since the late 1960s. In 1969, Boe helped AIM incorporate, and Lutheran mission money has funded several AIM programs and projects.

"Because I felt that I had been invited to Wounded Knee as a churchman in confidence that I would not reveal things that I had seen and heard, I refused to testify before the grand jury," he says.

ALC PRESIDENT David W. Preus has announced full support for Boe, including legal and financial support.

Preus went on to declare that Boe's presence at Wounded Knee was within the "framework of his responsibilities as an employee of the American Lutheran Church . . ."

The ALC position on clergy confidentiality, adopted in 1962, declares the church policy includes "to counsel with persons, to receive their confessions, and to give advice, comfort and guidance to those who seek it" and reaffirms "the traditional discipline and practice of the Lutheran church that the pastor hold inviolate and disclose to no one the confessions and communications made to him as a pastor."

However, South Dakota law, under which Boe first was held in contempt of court for his refusal to answer questions, limits privileged communications to confessions from a contrite or repentant parishioner.

The National Council of Churches and the U.S. Catholic Conference, joined by eight other denominations or church agencies, including Boe's two sister churches, the Lutheran Church in America and the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod, filed a friend of the court brief to support Boe.

IN MID-JANUARY, the Eighth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the contempt citation only an hour before Boe was to begin what could have been 14 months in jail.

But the court did not address itself to the question of clergy confidentiality and instead reversed the decision on technical grounds.

While temporarily free, Boe still could be called before the grand jury and the whole process could be carried out with more attention to the technicalities.

If that were to happen, the question of clergy confidentiality probably would wind up in the Supreme Court.

Want To Check On Gas Station? IRS Offers Simple (?) Method

With all the talk about the gasoline shortage and price boosts, have you ever wondered whether your friendly neighborhood station is gouging?

I called the Internal Revenue Service in San Rafael to find out how to find out. The man who answered was pleasant, but he was geared to handle questions about filling out income tax forms, not the high price of gasoline. He referred me to another branch of the IRS, the stabilization board in San Francisco.

There, I was told that there is no flat maximum price any dealer can charge for his gasoline. Instead, the dealer must fill out a form, in typical IRS report fashion. He must list what he charged for gasoline on May 15, 1973, plus any wholesale increases since then, plus one cent. The figure he gets at the bottom of the page is the maximum he can charge.

THE STABILIZATION board spokesman noted that the IRS provides a special sticker that the dealer must post on the pump, it lists the gasoline's maximum price and octane rating.

Now, if any of you can remember how much that neighborhood dealer charged eight months ago, plus how much the refineries have upped their prices, and add that one cent, you're all set to check out that sticker.

IF MARIN COUNTY drivers think they've got gasoline troubles, they should try Coos Bay, Ore. The skyline there is dotted with huge gasoline storage tanks that supply most of western Oregon — but the local drivers must queu up for as much as four hours on streets leading to the stations that even bother to open.

A friend who lives in Coos Bay said the town's citizens have discovered a new pinnacle of frustration. It's when the station sells out the day's quota and shuts down just before the long-suffering driver gets to the pump. I wouldn't be surprised to see the homicide rate rise higher than the cost of living.

Even more frustrated are the Oregon couples who own two cars, both with license plates ending with either odd or even digits. Under Oregon rules, only cars with odd-numbered last digits can fill up one day; even numbers get gas the next.

ONE COFFEE-SHOP acquaintance has suggested that I quit worrying about gasoline and row to work from Black Point. Oughta be easy, he insists, to paddle out of the Petaluma River, down the shoreline, and up the San Rafael Canal.

But I keep remembering the time the Martinez-Benicia ferryboat got lost in the fog and wound up on the mudflats off San Pablo. With my luck, I'd probably make shore in Port Chicago.

Elected Air Board Bill Is Revived In Assembly

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to require that directors of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District be elected rather than appointed has been revived in an Assembly committee that last year shelved the proposal.

The bill, SB 546 by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, was iced in August by the transportation committee because the Assembly leadership preferred a similar bill by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco. Brown's bill was vetoed by the governor at the request of district officials.

Wtih Brown's bill dead, Alquist has scheduled his measure for a new hearing by the committee at 3:45 p.m. Tuesday in Room 2170 of the Capitol. If it clears the committee, the measure would go directly to the floor for a final vote that would send it to the governor.

Both bills were introduced a year ago after citizen groups complained the existing appointed board of 18 city councilmen and county supervisors is lax in controlling pollution. Lobbyists for the League of California Cities and County Supervisors Association of California oppose Alquist's bill.

The district's top administrator, D. J. Callaghan, has objected that an elected board could be taken over either by conservationists whose zeal could hurt the economy, or by special interests opposing pollution controls. The present system works fine, he has told the committee.

The bill would create a 20-member board.

Reform Initiative Arguments Are Asked

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The secretary of state's office yesterday invited voters to submit election pamphlet arguments for a sweeping "political reform" initiative which will appear on the June 4 primary ballot.

One argument in favor and one against the measure will be printed in the official ballot pamphlet mailed to voters before the election.

The initiative, among other things, would impose limits on campaign spending, broaden reporting requirements for campaign contributions and expenditures, require public officials to disclose possible conflicts of interest, and attempt to restrict activities of lobbyists.

It was sponsored by the public interest groups Common Cause and People's Lobby, and Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr.

Brown, a Democratic candidate for governor will choose which arguments appear on the pamphlet.

His office said People's Lobby along with another group already has submitted an argument in support of the measure — which must be given preference over other arguments by law.

No arguments against the initiative have been received — the office said.

The argument must be no longer than 500 words and be in Brown's hands by Feb. 4. Names of those submitting the argument must be included.

Order Out To Save On Electricity

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A lot of lights were turned off last night as a California Public Utilities Commission order to save electricity went into effect.

In general — the order — adopted Jan. 3 — said billboards and other outdoor signs may not be lighted after 10:30 p.m.

Businesses may keep window displays and one outdoor sign lighted until 10:30 p.m., or until a half hour after closing, whichever comes later.

Restrictions were placed on use of motors that move advertising signs, pumps for decorative fountains and the decorative lighting of buildings.

The new rules reduce the floodlighting of parking lots, ear sales lots and service stations by 50 per cent. They also ban interior lighting of businesses when not open, except for security purposes.

Where electricity is used for heating, the rules provide that temperature can only be raised to 68 degrees, and for cooling it can be lowered only to 78.

Russian Expert Will Speak At Marin Dinner

Dr. Paul E. Zinner, professor of political science at the University of California, Davis, will discuss the forces inside and outside the Soviet Union which are influencing Russian attitudes toward the United States at a dinner in Marin Feb. 13.

Dr. Zinner's talk is being sponsored by the Marin Program of the World Affairs Council at the Sausalito Yacht Club. Cocktails will be at 6:30 p.m., dinner at 7:15 and Dr. Zinner will speak at 8 p.m.

In addition to his teaching, Dr. Zinner was the regular panelist interpreting Soviet affairs on KQED's World Press program until its recent demise.

Reservations may be made by phoning the World Affairs Council headquarters in San Francisco.

Two Sonoma Officers Split Coroner's Job

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma County Sheriff Donald Striepeke and Dist. Atty. John W. Hawkes tomorrow will begin duties formerly performed by the county coroner.

Coroner Andrew Johansen resigned Monday after 16 years in office, and county supervisors transferred his duties to the two other offices in what they termed a move to save money for taxpayers.

Striepeke and Hawkes each will receive an additional $410 monthly salary as a result of the consolidation, which a county spokesman said yesterday is similar to those enacted by several other counties in the state.

As chief of a department, the coroner had been paid $21,420 a year.

The pay raises for the sheriff and district attorney were recommended by the Sonoma County Grand Jury. Supervisors also allocated an unspecified amount of "extra help funds" for the hiring of temporary clerical personnel to deal with a backlog of work at the coroner's office.

The raises will bring the sheriff's salary to $29,520 yearly, and the district attorney's pay to $32,976.

Pensioner Gets Wish With Fire

BEDFORD, England (UPI) — Police caught old age pensioner Cyril Swann setting fire to some rubbish and arrested him.

In court he told the judge he set the fire so he would be sent to jail because he had nowhere to live.

CENTENNIAL HONORS DUE OLD NATIVE

Who is the oldest San Rafael resident who is a native of Marin?

A search for the senior resident of San Rafael who was born locally was announced yesterday by the San Rafael Centennial Committee.

The committee will honor the person during the city's Centennial celebration in May.

Residents with a friend or relative older than 80 years of age who was born in Marin are asked to contact committee member Stanley Shaeffer at 205 Laurel Place, San Rafael.

Warren's Condition

INGLEWOOD (UPI) — Doctors report former Chief Justice Earl Warren, 82, hospitalized five days ago for treatment of a heart ailment is "much better" and probably will return home soon.

Studies Will Begin Soon On Marin-Sonoma Sewage Project

A study will soon be taken to determine feasibility of a Sonoma-Marin sewage management project to eliminate discharge into San Francisco Bay.

Sonoma County supervisors Monday allocated $18,000 for an engineering study of a regional waste plan which would involve complete reclamation of treated sewage for irrigation throughout both counties.

Marin sanitation districts have agreed to pay $24,000 for their share of the study. (The difference between the amount of each county's share is due to population differences in affected areas.)

In a presentation before Sonoma supervisors, county public works director Donald Head said the study would supplement regional sewage disposal plans already prepared for both counties.

Existing plans would join Sonoma and Marin in processing sewage for direct discharge into San Francisco Bay, with a total reclamation process beginning at a later time.

Head said the modified plan approved this week would eliminate the bay dumping in favor of reclamation from the start, reducing costs and environmental damage significantly.

Under the new plan, treated sewage from Marin and Sonoma counties would be piped to a reservoir in the Tolay Creek area east of Petaluma. The collected wastewater would be used during dry months to irrigate about 30,000 acres of farmland.

While the proposed project would provide for disposal of treated sewage, treatment itself would still be the responsibility of local agencies.

A NEW series in the First Friday Forenoon programs will open sponsored by the Jose Moya del Pino Library Guild tomorrow at the library at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Mrs. John C. Braman will open the public series with a program on "An Historical Review of Mayan Culture" at 11 a.m. Proceeds will benefit the library.

After the program the Pathfinders Tea Room will be open for luncheon.

THE ADOBE Squares Square Dance Club of Petaluma will hold a first Saturday hoedown Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at Kenilworth Recreation Hall in Petaluma. Tom Walton will be the caller for the club's anniversary dance for intermediate level dancers.

Refreshments will be served at intermission. The Adobe Squares are sponsored by the Petaluma Parks and Recreation Department.

STARTED 12 YEARS AGO

Expert In Oriental Rugs To Give Course In Marin

By JOAN LISETOR

Twelve years ago R. Tracy Shaw bought an Oriental rug from a junk shop on McAllister Street in San Francisco for $35. Today he estimates the rug's value at $1,000.

The following year he went shopping at Macy's to buy another rug, and he was hired to sell rugs by the store. The Sausalito resident worked at Macy's until opening his own restoring and appraising business in San Francisco last year.

During the years he worked at Macy's he learned how to restore rugs and to appraise them.

Shaw will share his knowledge of Oriental rugs and European tapestries when he lectures for the Oriental rug course sponsored by the Marin Symphony Association. The six-week course begins Wednesday at the Tamalpais Retirement Residence in Greenbrae.

Self taught, Shaw refers to himself as a "former hay seed off the farm in Iowa."

"I LITERALLY got off the tractor and went to the University of Iowa," he said. "I'll tell you about the high school I went to. I didn't read the "Hunchback of Notre Dame" until my last year in high school because I thought it was another football story."

During a school vacation he came to San Francisco for a visit, liked it and stayed. His introduction to Oriental rugs came from the family of the friend with whom he lived when he first came to San Francisco. He was attracted by the mystery of the rugs, he said.

The rug course will cover the definition of rug construction, and he will discuss aspects of rugs in general.

"We will take the rugs from the point of view of nomadic, village or court," he explained. "Usually rugs are classified by country, area and tribe, but if someone is interested in that approach there are books available."

During the course he hopes to sensitize the participants to the different aspects — texture, color and sensations — of the rugs, he said.

"I hope to unlock areas of enjoyment and stimulate curiosity," he said.

The past five years has seen a phenomenal increase in the interest of Oriental rugs.

"IN THE '20s through the '40s people bought them because they were cheap," he said. "In the '60s younger people became interested in them, and from 1967 through 1970 a fever of collecting began. Decorators began using them and that is how the masses went."

Persons who think Oriental rugs are dull and dark are remembering ones they saw as children in front parlors, he said. They were used with dull, dark furniture and walls, which did nothing to enhance their beauty. Also many of the rugs from the '20s and '30s were made in Persia, then painted in New York, which also did nothing to enhance their beauty.

Shaw said the first time he was sent to appraise a rug he was "scared to death." There are points of reference in appraising, such as the number of knots, and, if a rug is new, the time and labor are considered, he said.

Other considerations are the aesthetic value, for which there is no reference, and the market value.

"I hope the course will give people a sense about rugs so they can judge for themselves and organize their own feelings, whether they like patterns that are refined or wild and barbaric," he said.

Participants in other courses he has given at the College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland, Grace Cathedral in San Francisco and for the Junior League of San Francisco, have attracted decorators, those with rugs in their families who want to learn more about them and those in the process of buying or thinking about buying rugs.

SHAW IS NOT rigid in his attitude toward rugs. He emphasizes that you don't have to be a collector to enjoy them. Nor does he insist they must be on the floor, as many experts in the field do. They can be displayed on a wall or if they are small over a coffee table on a piano or sofa, he said.

Shaw is a volunteer for the deYoung Museum's Tapestry Conservation Corps and was one of four persons selected by the museum to do restoration work that previously had to be sent to Portugal.

To persons asking his advice about Oriental rugs he recommends books on the subject and finding someone whose knowledge you can trust by listening to everyone in the business and also taking one of his courses.

ORIENTAL RUG appraiser and restorer, R. Tracy Shaw, works on rugs at his home in Sausalito on days off from his rug business in San Francisco. He will lecture on Oriental rugs and European tapestries during the Oriental Rug course, sponsored by the Marin Symphony Association, which starts Wednesday at the Tamalpais Retirement Residence in Greenbrae. GENERATION RAP

Test Shows Friend Can't Be Trusted: But Which Friend?

HELEN AND SUE:

Jan, my first best friend, told me that this girl I would like for my second best friend can't be trusted. I didn't believe it about Karen, so Jan said, "Let's test her."

On the way to lunch, I talked noise about Jan to Karen, like we'd planned. Sure enough, Jan told me later that Karen repeated everything I'd said to her. By the way, we're all in seventh grade.

If you can't trust a girl, should you consider her for your second best friend? — LOST CONFIDENCE IN HER

P.S. I read your column in a city paper Jan and Karen don't see, so don't worry about starting a feud.

DEAR LCIH:

Which is the real friend here — the one who plays tricks, or the one who may have talked before she thought?

If you like someone, you shouldn't feel the need to test her. Maybe Karen should consider dropping you. — SUE

DEAR LOST:

Pardon my suspicious nature, but remember — Jan helped you make up that "noise," and you have only her word that Karen passed it along. Could your best friend be jealously trying to knock down a rival by making her out a tattletale? First friends often feel threatened by second friends, especially at junior high level, where three girls usually means two-against-one.

You could find out easily enough with more sneaky tests, but then you might end up with no friends at all. Instead, why not forget the tricks, add another girl to make this a foursome, and start being honest with one another? — HELEN

RAP:

I had a summer job in a lumber mill, and I'll be working there next summer because being on the green chain pays better than most jobs college girls can get. Naturally I'm around men mostly, and a lumber crew doesn't say "Oh fudge" or "Heavens to Betsy" when something goes wrong. I'm used to that, and get along well with most of the guys.

But a couple of them figure I'm a liberationist, and went all out with the filthy jokes, foul language, etc. "If she wants to be a man, we'll treat her like a man," is their attitude.

My parents say I should complain to the boss if it happens this year, but — SHOULD I?

S.I:

No! If you complain to the boss about "male" language, you're asking for special "female" protection, which green chain workers usually don't get! — HELEN

S.I.:

Instead, develop a deaf ear, and avoid the two jokers as much as possible. When they realize they can't shock or upset you, I think they'll calm down especially since most of the guys are on your side. — SUE

DEAR RAP:

Homecoming queens got a lot of publicity last year, what with pregnant ones being kicked out of the running, and a bearded male winning the honor at UCD (University of California, Davis).

My boyfriend says he's going to run for our homecoming queen contest this year. How can I talk him out of it? — ENUF's ENUF

DEAR ENUF:

Tell him you'll start a rumor that he's pregnant! — HELEN AND SUE

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES SANDY
Novato wedding

Catherine Cordeiro Is Wed To James Sandy

Catherine Cordeiro of Novato and James Sandy of San Anselmo were wed Jan. 19 at St. Anthony of Padua Church in Novato. A reception followed at the Sausalito Portuguese IDES-SI Hall.

Catherine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Cordeiro of Novato and James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sandy of Racine, Wis.

The bride's twin sister, Madeline Cordeiro of Novato, was maid of honor, and Debbie Smith of Novato, and Renee Silveira and Heather Sandy, both of San Rafael, were bridesmaids.

The bridegroom's brother Tom Sandy of Racine was best man and his other brother Don Sandy Jr. and Charles Schultz, both of San Rafael, were ushers at the afternoon wedding.

Catherine was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School, the College of Marin and Sonoma State College, where she received a degree in geography. She is currently in the elementary credential program at Sonoma State and working as a student teacher.

She is the granddaughter of Mary Cordeiro and Marian Correia, both of New Bedford, Mass.

James was graduated from Washington Park High School in Racine, the College of Marin and Sonoma State College, where he received a degree in urban studies. He is now employed as a carpenter.

Engagement Of Couple Is Revealed

The engagement of Bette Michelotti to Peter Solinsky of Oakland has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aldo Michelotti of San Rafael.

The granddaughter of Mrs. Agnese Maggiorini of San Rafael, Bette is the sister of Mrs. William Esselstein of Menlo Park and Barbara Michelotti of Florence, Italy.

She is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School, attended San Diego State University and is a graduate of the University of Nevada at Reno. She is a teacher at Kerry Hills Elementary School in Pinole.

Peter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Solinsky and the grandson of Mrs. Edward Solinksy, all of Oakland.

He was graduated from Skyline High School in Oakland and Golden Gate University of San Francisco. Peter is employed with Grove Valve and Regulator Co. in Oakland.

The couple is planning a June wedding.

Study Workshop Set On Quilting

Joyce Gross of the Mill Valley Quilt Authority will conduct a study workshop at the San Joaquin County Historical Society Museum in Lodi from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Feb. 7.

Mrs. Gross will discuss the museum's quilt collection with the museum docents. Mrs. Medora Johnson is museum director. Quilts made by pioneer women include a signature quilt made in 1859 while crossing the plains in a covered wagon, which is included in the Lodi collection.

Marin quilters interested in the session may contact Mrs. Marian Wilkie in Mill Valley for information.

Bonnie Sluser Will Marry Kirk Johnson

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sluser of San Rafael have announced the engagement of their daughter Bonnie Lynn Sluser of San Francisco to Kirk Johnson. He is the son of Mrs. Helen Johnson of San Francisco.

Bonnie is a graduate of San Rafael High School and attends California State University, San Francisco, where she is a senior.

She is the sister of Stacy Beth Sluser and Eric Mark Sluser of Belmar, N.J.

Kirk is a graduate of Washington High School and received the B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of San Francisco.

He is the grandson of Mrs. Olive Northcott of Grass Valley.

The couple plan a June 9 wedding in San Rafael.

Suzanne Shirley New Pixie Parents Leader

Suzanne Shirley of Greenbrae has been elected president of the Pixie Parents Inc. of the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

She said that the group is open to any parent of pre-first grade children and it maintains the Pixie Parents playground Pixie Place at the center.

She nad her husband Allen, a certified public accountant with Coopers and Lybrands, are parents of Mark, 6; twins Noelle Marie and Joel, 3, and Nicholas, 2 months old.

Mrs. Shirley was born in San Francisco and received a teaching credential from California State University, San Francisco. She is a volunteer art instructor in the Extended Learning Program at Anthony Bachich Elementary School in Kentfield. She is also a past board member of the Marin Mothers of Twins Club and is advisor to the St. Sebastian's Church young adult program. Suzanne Shirley does tutoring in phonetics and mathematics and enjoys art and interior design.

She said that the Pixie Parents group this year will sponsor the annual Easter Egg Hunt and Fair for all pre-school children this spring at the center and continue to maintain the playground there.

Other new officers of the group are Mmes. Bruce Hunter, vice president; Dowd Jessen, secretary; Robert Gloistein, treasurer, and Louis McCarthy, operations chairman.

Classes For Expectant Parents Set

A new series of classes for expectant parents will open Feb. 6, sponsored by the Education for Childbirth program in San Rafael.

The nine weekly programs will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the office of physical therapist Gunhild Brown in Greenbrae. Margaret B. Farley, registered physical therapist, will be the instructor.

The meetings will include exercises to help expectant women be more comfortable during pregnancy, relaxation and breathing techniques, posture training and exercises for postnatal recovery. Instruction will also be given on understanding the processes of prenancy and labor.

Films in childbirth will be shown.

Fathers are also encouraged to attend all classes to learn the support and coaching role.

Expectant parents are urged to enroll as early in the pregnancy as possible and must have written permission from their physicians, Mrs. Farley said.

YWCA To Sponsor Terrarium Classes

The Young Women's Christian Association will sponsor two bottle gardening terrarium classes, both beginning Wednesday at the YWCA, 1618 Mission Avenue in San Rafael.

Classes will be at 1 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Lee Kohs is the instructor.

Participants will plant a mini garden and are asked to bring a one gallon bottle, pebbles or aquarium gravel, charcoal, planting mix and three miniature plants.

Registration is required and can be made by calling the YWCA.

Education Leader To Talk Wednesday

Mae Carden, founder of the Carden method of education, will speak Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Turley Hall of the Methodist Church First in San Rafael on the necessity of character training in the education of young children.

Miss Carden supervises the operation of approixmately 40 private schools in California and several in other states that use her curriculum. She has written all manuals and work books and many of the textbooks used in the Carden Schools.

A Coeducational Approach Urged

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This column is written for girls in junior and senior high schools and women in colleges and universities.)

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Most of the really interesting competitive games require strength as well as stamina and agility. And this means that it is difficult to put together coeducational teams which can compete together as well as teams made up of either all males or all females.

Take field hockey, for example. In the United States, it is considered a predominantly female sport. In many European and Asian countries, teams are all male. The men's version of field hockey is quite different from the women's.

But not so much different that high school boys in the United States couldn't enjoy participating in what has been traditionally played only by women.

MANY HIGH SCHOOL boys are slight of build, and with proper training could compete for places on the high school's field hockey team and play not only other coeducational intramural teams, but coed teams from other high schools.

By starting this type of play at the secondary school level, it would be possible to make up coeducational field hockey teams at the college level.

Volleyball is another game which can lend itself, with some modification of the rules, to coeducational play. One might insist, for example, that each team must have an equal number of men and women, and put in a further rule that any ball hit more than one time by a team when attempting a return, must be hit by both a man and a woman.

For example, when a team is setting up a smash, it is customary for a player in the back row to lob a ball high for one in the front row to jump up and attempt to smash a winner into the opponent's court. The modified rule says that one of those two hits must be made by a woman — same rule, if there are three members of a team hitting the ball on one return.

Soccer is another good game which could be played with coeducational teams. The penalty for body contact might be made so severe that this part of the game virtually would be eliminated. Then, like field hockey, secondary school teams might be forerunners to college teams.

AND IN all these sports activities, there might be three varsity teams: one made up of men, one for women, and one coeducational.

This, of course, has been the case in tennis for years. While there are a great many players who don't enjoy mixed doubles, there are many who do.

In the track and field events, mixed relay teams can become just as natural as mixed doubles in tennis. Also, even with men competing against men and women against women, a school's total points for a single meet could include all events. This would ensure, for example, that girls and women got the same travel arrangements, the same use of equipment, comparable uniforms, and equally well-trained coaches as the male competitors have traditionally had.

It's you high school girls who are going to have to work for changes in our school's competitive athletic programs and then lend a hand to your college "sisters" after high school graduation. Too many college traditions and financial arrangements such as direct alumni gifts to male-dominated athletics slow down progress in improved athletic programs for women at colleges and universities.

Couple On Honeymoon To Mexico

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grayling Smith (Tanya Sandberg) are on a wedding trip to Mexico following their marriage Friday evening at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alf Sandberg of San Rafael, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith, also of San Rafael.

Maid of honor for the bride was Jean Robb of San Francisco. Bridesmaids were Judy Saladin of Petaluma; the bridegroom's sister, Jennifer Smith, and Sherrie Kirkendall, both of San Anselmo; Charlyn Oldrich and Dennise Rue, both of San Rafael.

Best man for his brother was Hoyt Smith of San Diego, and guests were ushered to their seats by the bride's brother, Anthony Sandberg, and Vance Gillette, both of San Rafael; Allen Smith of Mountain View; Allen Hadley of Petaluma; and Robert Beggs of Tucson, Ariz.

Tanya was graduated from San Rafael High School and attended College of Marin. The bridegroom is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School. Both are employed by Arneson Products in San Rafael.

Mrs. Dorman H. Smith of San Rafael is the bridegroom's grandmother.

Heart Association Is Sponsoring Several Weight Control Classes

The Marin County Heart Association will sponsor a series of weight control classes, beginning Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the dining room at Novato General Hospital.

State registered dietician Pamel P. Gilroy will teach the 12-week course, which will include movies and lectures by specialists in the fields of medicine, physical therapy and home economics.

In previous sessions average weight loss has been 15 to 18 pounds per person. Low calorie recipes will be provided along with meal planning ideas for the entire family.

Participants will be weighed weekly. Referral from a physician is required. Advance registration can be made by calling the Marin County Heart Association.

Among the recipes:

VEAL WITH ARTICHOKES

- 2 cloves garlic
- 2 tablespoons oil
- 2 pounds veal round, cut into bite-size pieces (have butcher cut pieces to 1/4 inch thick)
- 1 one pound can solid-pack tomates
- ½ cup sherry or sauterne
- ¼ teaspoon oregano
- 2 10-ounce packages frozen artichoke hearts.

In a heavy skillet, saute the garlic in oil. Remove the garlic. Season the veal with salt and pepper. Brown in the oil.

Add the tomatoes, wine, and oregano, mixing well, and the artichoke hearts. Cover and simmer 45 to 60 minutes, or until the meat is tender.

CHICKEN IN WHITE WINE AND YOGURT

- 4 chicken breasts
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 3 tablespoons flour
- ½ cup chicken bouillon
- ¾ cup low-fat yogurt
- ¼ cup white wine
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup sliced mushrooms.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Melt 1 tablespoon margarine in a shallow baking pan; place chicken breasts in the pan. Bake, uncovered, about 30 minutes. Meanwhile melt remaining margarine in a saucepan, add flour, and cook briefly, stirring. Add bouillon, stirring constantly until mixture is thick and smooth. Add yogurt, wine, lemon rind, salt, pepper, stirring until blended.

Remove pan from oven. Turn each chicken breast. Cover each with sliced mushrooms, and pour sauce over all. Bake, uncovered, for 30 minutes, or until tender.

Third Class In Series Set Tonight

The third class in the Dynamic Learning series, "Individualization in Education," will be held tonight at 7:30 in Room 25, mathematics center, not last night as reported in Tuesday's Independent-Journal.

NEW RECREATION AREA

Mini-Park Is Nearing Completion

San Rafael's newest recreational facility — tiny Beach Park — is nearing completion after several month's work by the city's parks department.

The facility, to be dedicated during the city's Centennial celebration, is being built on a half-acre parcel adjacent to Dominic's Restaurant on the San Rafael Canal.

The facility, designed by city landscape architect Scott C. Tilden, who is also supervising its construction, cost about $15,000.

The tab includes 800 tons of sand, rip-rap along a portion of the canal turning basin and several varieties of unusual palm trees.

Huge concrete disks, once foundation platforms for oil tanks, serve as the base for the gazebo and other picnic and sitting areas.

"It was a question of utilizing what was here and capitalizing on it," said Tilden.

Tilden said the park will eventually include a dock for sailboats and other small craft. Beach grass will be planted over the imported sand dunes, he added.

The park is the latest of Tilden's creations.

A city employee since 1964, Tilden is credited with designing Freitas, Santa Margarita Valley and Victor Jones parks, as well as "redeveloping and rebuilding" most other city parks.

"This park," Tilden said, "is the first step in the beautification of the San Rafael Canal."

Dieting Mother Just Looks On

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP) — It was Shirley Turner's 36th birthday, but only her husband and two daughters partook of her birthday cake.

Mrs. Turner said yesterday she has lost about 50 pounds since mid-Novamber when doctors inserted a silver plate in her mouth and then cemented her upper and lower teeth to the plate.

The Nottingham woman weighed 247 pounds before the crash diet began and she is hopeing to shed 135 pounds by June.

Tam High Trustee Miller Quits—Business Pressures

In a letter written to board chairman Jerrold M. Lader, the 51-year-old Miller said he was leaving the board because of the pressures of business.

Miller was appointed to the board in November 1968, to fill the unexpired term of Dr. John C. Siemen, who resigned after suffering a heart attack.

Miller sought reelection without opposition in 1971 and was elected to serve until June 30, 1975.

Trustees will officially receive the resignation when they meet Monday, according to Edward J. Neumeier, district administrative assistant.

Neumeier said trustees will have the options of serving as a four-member board until Miller's term expires or calling a special election in June to fill the vacancy.

If a special election is held at the same time as the June 4 primary, Neumeier said anyone elected would serve only until Miller's term expires in June 1975.

San Rafael High Picks New Officers

Randy Emch has been elected president of the San Rafael High School student body.

Other new officers are: Darlene Lewis, vice president; Sherry Ives, secretary ; Brian Hom, treasurer; Linda Showers, publicist; Lynne Menary, spirit director; Janis Parducci, elections director, and Max Thelen, action board chairman.

Bell Quits Tamalpais High Post

Raymond J. Bell, principal of the Tamalpais High School District's adult, evening and continuation schools, has resigned his $26,000-per-year position, effective April 1.

Bell, 46, has been named principal of a new high school in Tahoe City in the Tahoe-Truckee School District. Although the school will not open until September, Bell will assume his duties April 1.

He started in the district in 1951 as a teacher at Tamalpais High School after he graduated from California State University at San Francisco.

He taught at the school until 1964 when he became vice principal. He was named principal in 1969.

Bell became the center of a district controversy in 1972 when trustees, at the recommendation of former Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, created an "educational leader" position at Tamalpais High and effectively dropped Bell down a notch.

He left the school in June, 1973, to take the position he has since held.

Edward J. Neumeier, district administrative assistant, said that because of present district financial problems, it is unclear if another person will be named to fill Bell's job.

Cal-Vet Bonds Put On Ballot

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Wednesday signed legislation placing on the June 4 ballot a $350 million bond act to finance Cal-Vet farm, home and mobile home loans.

The measure (AB2647) was authored by Assemblyman Ernest N. Mobley, R-Sanger.

Santa Rosan Killed In Head-On Collision

A Santa Rosa woman was killed and three other Sonoma County women were seriously injured last night in a head-on, wrong-way crash on Highway 101, north of Petaluma.

California Highway Patrol investigators withheld the name of the dead woman. They said the 53-year-old woman's husband is seriously ill in a hospital.

The crash happened at 10:15 p.m., about a mile north of the Devon Overcrossing.

Investigators said Katrina Lee Pfeiffer, 21, of Sebastopol, was northbound when she suddenly made a left turn into the divider strip. A witness — who told officers he himself was forced off the road by the incident — said the Pfeiffer car then turned around and sped off southward in the northbound lanes. It hit the Santa Rosa woman's car head-on.

Riding with the woman who was killed were Jacqueline Lewis and Cindy Courcier, 19, both of Santa Rosa.

Mrs. Pfeiffer and the Santa Rosa women all were taken to Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma, where they were reported in "guarded" condition today with major injuries. They were in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Patrol officers said Mrs. Pfeiffer probably will be charged with felony drunken driving and manslaughter.

Moore Estate Is $5.8 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mrs. Milcred Ralph Moore, who died May 2, 1971, left an estate of $5.8 million, according to documents filed in superior court.

Mrs. Moore was the widow of Joseph A. Moore, former chairman of Moore Drydock Co., of Oakland. Her brother was the late James R. Rolph, mayor of San Francisco and California governor.

Transit Panel Leader Chosen

San Francisco labor union official Lawrence Mazzola has been named chairman of the Golden Gate Bridge District's transportation committee by district president Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco.

Mazzola, a director since 1970, succeeded Marin County Supervisor Michael Wornum as chairman of the key committee. Wornum's replacement on the bridge board, Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arigoni Jr., replaced Mazzola as vice chairman of the committee.

Mazzola is an official with Plumbers and Pipe Fitters Local 38. He was appointed to the bridge board by San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto as one of the city's nine members on the 18-member board.

Lester Gallery In Inverness Showing Four Artist's Work

By ADA GARFINKEL

The Lester Gallery in Inverness is a new art spot with an outlook fostered by the energy crunch.

Its birth was generated by the idea that discriminating art lovers, who may have formerly gone to distant art centers, will find a visit to this informal and cheerful gallery fascinatingly worthwhile.

Gallery director Inez Storer, herself an artist and a former faculty member at California State University at San Francisco, is a warm and friendly person.

Mrs. Storer sees no need to travel distances for "trendy art." She has lined up a roster of artists of national and international reputation in the art world. In addition, she later plans to include the work of talented artists who are new on the scene or little known.

The gallery makes its debut with a four-artist group show whose work is allied by unique working methods, the symbolic use of the human form, and by primitive influences absorbed from travel, work, and study in the American Southwest, Central and South America, and in the Orient. Their work is sensual, and even erotic, in a gentle and understated way.

Barbara Shawcroft is one of the few weavers who create additive and subtractive, interchangeable sculptures. One of them was shown in the "Sixth Biennale" in Switzerland last year.

Miss Shawcroft does not use a loom. Her large "columns" some as high as five feet are hand-twisted. They stand, lean, or rest individually, or interlock into gigantic totems.

She also shows an assortment of small, hand-crocheted sculptural pieces influenced by Pre-Columbian ceramic folk-art. "Bound Man" and the hybrid half-bird, half-man "Man with Bowl" are intriguing examples.

Miss Shawcroft's primary interest in evocative organic form and varied textures are fully realized in "Red Vessel."

Paul Harris, known internationally for his upholstered cloth sculptures, currently exhibits patina'd bronzes which also follow his tendency to take objects out of context and rehabituate them into another medium or environment.

John Cushing Wright treats his rich, tapestry-like paintings as flat, lateral surfaces. Movement and color vibrations are generated by bands of light-colored dots weaving under and over anatomical forms in a handsome painting primarily in cobalt blues and black. It is suggestive of Meso-American rock paintings.

"In the Red Forest" is like a smoldering volcano in alizerin reds and blacks. Swaths of dots in white, cadmium red, and light green create a sense of immediate necessity to hold back a form that seems ready to burst forth.

The show will continue through March 1, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesdays through Sundays. The gallery is located on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Inverness.

State To Auction Off Squaw Valley

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The State of California's controversial Squaw Valley site of the 1960 Winter Olympics is to be sold at auction Friday.

F. Dean Bailey, senior land agent for the California Department of General Services, said Monday the minimum acceptable bid will be $2,555,000, the appraised value.

Beverly Sills Will Sing Sunday In San Francisco

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

Beverly Sills, considered by many critics as "one of the great coloraturas (sopranos) of this century, will present her only Bay Area recital of the season Sunday night at the San Francisco Opera House.

Miss Sills, who appeared this past season in the San Francisco Opera Company production of "La Traviata," is the reigning diva of the New York City Opera. She will make her long-awaited debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company later this season.

DRAMA

The Magic Theater of San Francisco will present the world premiere of Michael McClure's new musical, "Gorf" tomorrow night at the Firehouse Theater. McClure, a San Francisco playwright and poet, calls his latest show "an alchemical drama, like Mozart's 'The Magic Flute,' turned inside out." Several other of his plays, including "The Button" and "The Beard" have been produced in the Bay Area.

This is the first major production for the Magic Theater in a recently announced five-year program to establish itself as a "strong alternative theatrical center in the West," according to Robert C. Lemon, the company's new general manager.

The American Conservatory Theater of San Francisco announced this week that "Oh Coward!", a revue with words and music by the late Sir Noel Coward, will leave the Marines' Memorial Theater on Feb. 10.

BEVERLY SILLS
Recital on Sunday

MUSIC

Appearing this week with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra is pianist Radu Lupu, performing Grieg's Piano Concert in his debut with the ensemble.

Replacing ailing maestro Josef Krips, who has canceled his three-week assignment with the orchestra, will be Hans Vonk for the first two weeks. Vonk formerly was an assistant director of the Amsterdam Concertgebouw Orchestra. He will handle the Feb. 6-8, and Feb. 13-15 assignments.

Other events:

Protest On Fuel Price Expensive

Rev. Harris, pastor of the Church of God and Christ Congregational in Ogden, Utah, parked his car in the middle of the busy downtown intersection Tuesday and lay down in the street to protest increasing gasoline prices.

When police arrived he refused to move and was cited for illegal parking and failure to obey an officer.

City Judge Floyd Gowans fined Rev. Harris $55.

'Sunshine' Shows Are Scheduled

"Little Mary Sunshine," a spoof on Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy musicals, will be presented by the Rainbow Players of Mill Valley beginning Feb. 21 at 7 p.m. at Old Mill School.

The play also will be staged Feb. 28, March 7 and March 14. Performers will include Mark Grover, Emily Newton and Kristi LaBianca of Mill Valley, Thomas Shipp of Larkspur and Dana Kelly and Nancy MacLean of San Francisco. Jim Piersall of the Mill Valley Ballet Center will do choreography. Auditions for male singing roles still available will be held through Friday at 7 p.m. at Old Mill School.

MOTORISTS ARE IGNORING SPEED LIMIT

Marin motorists, like drivers throughout the state, apparently have lost their enthusiasm for the new 55-mile-an-hour speed limit introduced Jan. 1 to save gasoline.

Twenty-seven received speeding tickets Tuesday, 42 per cent higher than during an average 24-hour period, according to Capt. William S. Bloomer of the Marin office of the California Highway Patrol.

Statewide, the number of motorists cited for breaking the new limit has doubled since the highway patrol began a strict crackdown, patrol officials disclosed yesterday.

"The purpose of the new limit is to conserve fuel, so we cannot allow drivers the latitude they enjoyed in the past," Bloomer said.

Second Black To Become Admiral

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Navy Capt Gerald E. Thomas of Boston has been chosen by a military selection board to become the second black admiral in American history.

Thomas, now commander of Destroyer Squadron 9 based at Long Beach, will become an admiral when he is confirmed by the Senate. His name was among 37 captains the Navy selection board picked yesterday for promotions to rear admiral.

Standard's Profits Up 50 Per Cent

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Standard Oil Company of California yesterday announced profits totaling $843.6 million for 1973, up more than 50 per cent from a year earlier.

Earnings for the final quarter of the year were nearly double those of the last quarter of 1972.

Board Chairman O. N. Miller said the increased earnings were the result of higher prices for the company's products. He said the improved profits, which represented a 15.3 per cent return on net investment, were "essential" to the company's plans for future investment.

The company said the earnings represented $4.97 per share, compared with $3.22 per share on earnings of $547 million in 1972. The board of directors declared quarterly dividends of 42½ cents per share.

Fourth quarter income was estimated at $283.1 million, compared with $145.8 million in the same quarter of 1972.

Miller said Standard spent $1.2 billion on exploration last year and would spend $1.6 billion on it this year. He said during 1973 the company had "considerable success" in finding new reserves of gas and oil.

A Royal Visit

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth II and other members of the British royal family began a visit to New Zealand, Papua-New Guinea and Australia yesterday.

Oregon Gas Rationing System Is Joked About, But It Works

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Oregon's new gasoline allocation program has become the butt of countless jokes, but the last laugh is on the unbelievers.

Under the voluntary system, which took effect early this month, Oregon motorists with odd-numbered license plates buy gasoline on odd-numbered calendar days and those with even-numbered plates on even-numbered days.

Typical of the humor inspired by the system was a sign at the local Marion County Public Welfare office when the Willamette River flooded restrooms recently.

The sign said a substitute privy could be used, depending upon a person's Social Security number and whether the number was odd or even — even numbers for the a.m., odd numbers for the p.m.

The jokes have not obscured one thing, however. The system is working. Panic buying has stopped. The plan already has spread across the Columbia River into neighboring southwest Washington, where gasoline is equally scarce, and a mandatory odd-even system went into effect in Hawaii's Honolulu County on Monday. Officials think more states will follow suit if the gasoline situation becomes more serious.

Gasoline dealers discovered their supplies were running low just before Christmas and, as the word spread, motorists began lining up at gasoline stations to keep their tanks full for holiday travel.

Police were forced to patrol streets near some stations both for traffic control and protection of attendants who sometimes were threatened by irate customers.

The harried attendants stopped washing windshields and checking oil as they concentrated on getting gas into the tanks. One dealer suffered a heart attack.

Operating hours became shorter and shorter as dealers imposed daily quotas so their supply would last the month.

The shortage was so severe that traffic on Portland freeways dropped 20 per cent.

When dealers agreed to the voluntary plan suggested by Gov. Tom McCall's energy staff early in January, the problem melted away as fast as it had developed.

Although gasoline supplies remain short in Oregon, the plan clearly is working as stations are staying open longer hours and lines have disappeared.

Because the plan is voluntary, compliance is difficult to determine, but McCall and his staff believe the system is being used where necessary.

Matching Books With Authors

Jack Nixon, a cataloguer at Brigham Young University's library, has been doing it for years and has come up with quite a list.

Like "Your Guide to Foot Health" by Morton Walker and "Fighting Terms" by Thom Gunn. Or how about "The Mother's Book" by Lydia Child or "Solid Geometry" by L. Lines.

Nixon to date has 60 entries on his match-the-book-with-the-author name list.

WATER THAT MOVES — A 4-months-old opossum, released at the Gerbode Preserve in the Marin Forts area, seems bemused at the site of running water. The bare-tailed marsupial, hand-raised in Walnut Creek, was released to live wild in the nature study area yesterday.

FIRST TASTE OF NATURE — A short-eared brush rabbit, its nose twitching, cautiously sniffs the first growing plant it's ever seen, at the Gerbode Preserve in Marin County. The rabbit, found orphaned as a tiny baby, was raised at the Alexander Lindsay Junior Museum in Walnut Creek. It was released in Marin yesterday as part of the Bay Area Wildlife Rehabilitation Council's program.

A Haven Away From Civilization

By JEFF GREER

Right now, the wildcat is recovering from wounds inflicted apparently by a pack of dogs near Nicasio. He's convalescing in the rescue center of the Louise A. Boyd Marin Museum of Science in San Rafael, under the care of veterinarians from the Animal Medical Care Foundation of Marin.

As soon as the bobcat is able to fend for himself in the wild, he will be turned loose to roam the hills and shores of an area that once was slated to become Marincello, a proposed city of 25,000 persons.

The bobcat will join eagles, hawks, waterfowl and other wildlife that already have been released at the preserve.

The newly formed Wildlife Rehabilitation Council is making the Gerbode Preserve and its neighboring Fort Cronkhite into a Bay Area headquarters for birds and animals recovered from unhappy encounters with civilization.

Secretary of the new council is Paul Maxwell. He heads the nature education project of the Marin County superintendent of schools office and is overseer for the educational program planned for the Gerbode Preserve.

The preserve, 2,000-plus acres formerly slated for development by Gulf Western Co., has been sold under option to Nature Conservancy — which will donate it for inclusion in the Golden Gate National Recreation Area.)

Gary Bogue of the Alexander Lindsay Junior Museum in Walnut Creek is chairman of the new wildlife council. Other member organizations include the Boyd Museum, International Bird Rescue of Berkeley, the San Francisco Zoo and the Peninsula Humane Society of San Mateo County. All the organizations previously worked separately on programs for rehabilitating wild creatures and turning them loose.

The council grew from the mutual belief that it was best for the agencies to pool talents, manpower and equipment, Maxwell explained. He said negotiations are going on with the Army to obtain one of the surplus missile bases in the Marin Headlands forests area. It would become headquarters for the council's proposed library and the Gerbode Preserve's education program.

Maxwell and graduate-level college students already are conducting scientific studies of hawks, eagles, water birds and other creatures they've tagged and released in the preserve. "It's a natural area for this sort of thing," Maxwell explained. "It's fairly self-contained geographically." Its hills, cliffs, woods, open grassy slopes and fresh water, as well as salt water lagoons, provide natural living areas for a wide variety of wildlife.

Maxwell, fellow nature education specialists and National Park Service officials also are studying the idea of reintroducing tule elk to the Gerbode Preserve. The elk, now vanished from Marin, once roamed the county in herds of hundreds.

Several of the council's member organizations offer special skills to the council, according to Leslie Rowe of the Boyd Museum. "Our specialties are seals and sea lions," she said. The museum in San Rafael also cares for an average of 1,500 birds and animal a year — turned in by Marin County residents who find them orphaned or injured.

The museum also is cooperating with the San Francisco Zoo in caring for four bear cubs that will be turned loose in the Northern California redwoods country when they can fend for themselves.

The museum's educational program has changed, Miss Rowe said. Formerly, museum-trained volunteers tried to hand-raise hundreds of fledgling, orphaned birds and small mammals each year.

"We don't do that any more," explained Miss Rowe, "Now we're stressing husbandry — how to provde a suitable habitat for birds and animals — but we're not teaching first aid."

The museum staff and the Animal Medical Care Foundation of Marin are caring for the animals — but largely keeping them out of public view, so they can readjust more easily to wild life.

"The old zoo idea is gone," Miss Maxwell said.

The new attitude toward wildlife has spurred off planning for disasters such as brush fires or oil spills, that always have taken a heavy toll.

The wildlife council, in cooperation with state and federal fish and game experts, is preparing Bay Area disaster plans to gather supplies and use manpower efficiently — averting the confusion that was one feature of the great oil spill in the Golden Gate.

The council will sponsor a three-day disaster symposium, Feb. 22 through 24 in Inverness, for workers in wildlife fields and "persons with administrative aptitude who could serve in a crisis."

The Marin County Animal Control and Health Committee, appointed by the board of supervisors, is preparing a comprehensive disaster plan for protecting Marin's pet animals and livestock as well as wildlife, in case of major emergencies.

The tough little bobcat, spitting at humans who get too close to his recuperation cage, can't know that he is beneficiary of all this new thinking. But it means that someday soon, he'll probably thrill a bunch of schoolchildren who will see him lording it over the Gerbode Preserve.

VOLUNTEER CLEANUP — Students of the Redwood High On Location School clean up debris from a demolished house on the Gerbode Nature Preserve in the Marin Forts area. Jan Leonard and Maid Lashley were among 50 students who lived at the preserve three days this week. They repaired bridges, helped make the area safe for school tours, and built huge cages to acclimate birds and animals before they are released.

Specials of the Week

VACANT & LONELY.....$52,500
SAN ANSELMO. A large & roomy 4 bedroom, 2 bath home and a 2 car garage. Fresh on the market and ready to go. A cheerful, family kitchen with new colorful wall paper & a large liv. rm., with a brick fireplace & a view you can really enjoy. Fresh paint throughout. Loads of storage, and very low upkeep backyard. Call now.

IDEAL LOCATION.....$38,500
CORTE MADERA. Mom, Dad and kid will love this home. Absentee owner must sell this 3 bdrm. home with large, level yard, patio, lovely paneling, w/w carpet & attached garage. A high assumable VA loan is only one of the additional features. Call now.

NON TRACT.....$44,950
SAN RAFAEL. An adorable home, unique in every way. 4 bdrms., 3 baths, family rm. and loaded with redwood decks & fruit trees! Loads of storage, handy commute & could even be a great in-law arrangement.

REDUCED & LOVELY.....$46,950
A 4 bdrm. or 3 bdrm. & den home with 2 baths, modern kit . . . 2 car garage & an enchanting priv. backyard. The children have their own play house and Dad would have very little work to do with the large brick patio and evergreen area.

YACHT HARBOR.....$49,950
SAN RAFAEL. NOT on the water - but a view of the harbor & bay from your private deck. Walk to shopping or your boat from this charming 4 bdrm. home in a prime weather area. Too large for Mom now that the kids are gone but could be great for you.

ECOLOGY HIDEAWAY.....$44,950
FAIRFAX. Not often do we find a home like this! Clean, large & roomy. Not a handyman project but the finished home. 2 bdrms., modern kitchen, lovely large liv. rm. with fireplace. Wrap-around deck, garage & workshop. To top it off we have a large assumable VA loan and a view that would make Mother Nature happy.

A MUSIC SHOP.....$9,500

MUSIC REVIEW

A Spirited Evening By Non-Marching Ensemble

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

Director Joe Curatilo kept the evening moving at a lively pace with a variety of pieces. Dan Williams introduced the works in lieu of a printed program.

Sousa's marches — "King Cotton," "Manhattan Beach," "Stars and Stripes Forever," and "Semper Fidelis" — were runaway favorites with the audience. Bass drummer Lawson (Woody) Woods proved himself a valuable asset in providing the steady foundation needed, and piccolo player David Krinitsky delivered the fine filagree work to "Stars and Stripes."

Back-to-back preludes — one by Handel (ca. 1750), the second by Giovannini (1970) — demonstrated diametrically opposing works with similar titles. Handel, of course, is Handel, and the Giovannini is a rock number that featured talented percussionist John Potter.

The solid community members that make up the band had no trouble adapting to the musical style well-suited to young Potter.

Solo pieces, too, had their place on the program. These included a trombone quartet playing "Aura Lee," and a march, and Roberta Peek doing a nice job on two harp pieces. Mrs. Peek has been studying harp only four years.

Don Spater conducted two good band arrangements: "The Drunken Sailor," and "Marching Up Broadway." The latter being a collection of show tunes such as "Cabaret," "Hey, Look Me Over," and "Consider Yourself."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Worry Originally Drove Most Cancer Victims To The Doctor

Why do most people delay seeing their physicains when they suspect they have cancer?

Doctors Thomas P. Hackett, W. H. Cassem, and John W. Raker of Boston who made a thorough study of the psychosocial factors of 563 cancer patients could not come up with the answer. In this group, they found that one in five saw a doctor in the first week after symptoms were noted. But two-thirds waited longer than a month; 38 per cent longer than three months, and one in four more than six months.

WHEN ASKED why they first consulted a doctor, 37 per cent said it was worry; 33 per cent pain, 13 per cent another's advice; 8 per cent incapacity, and 7 per cent a routine check-up. Oddly, those whose tumors were discovered in a routine check-up returned to the physician, often without delay. This speaks well for the routine use of the Pap smear and other regular physical examinations.

Since most of us associate cancer with pain, one would think that this symptom in itself would bring the victim to the physician as soon as possible. It was paradoxical that only 33 per cent gave pain as the principal reason for seeking medical help. Perhaps their pain was bearable or it carried other meanings, such as hopelessness and incurability.

WORRY AND fear were stronger motivating forces, second only to the annual check-up. People generally are anxious about cancer and often counteract their feelings by denying that cancer exists. And we know that worry tends to delay seeing the physician. But worry plays less of a role among the more intelligent or sophisticated individuals who want to talk freely and honestly about their symptoms and signs. By the same token, worry diminished when the situation was explained.

One out of every two interviewed had a family history of cancer. But the fact that cancer "runs in the family" only created a longer delay. The Boston physicians had no explanation except that if the disease in a family member had been fatal, the individual might delay seeing the physician to stave off facing the same end. Again, fear enters the picture demonstrating why scare campaigns do not encourage early diagnosis and treatment — the key to success in our fight against cancer.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer medical questions by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

FORMS OF ARTHRITIS

REPLY

Osteoarthritis usually occurs in older persons, involves weight bearing joints, and seldom produces crippling deformities. Rheumatoid arthritis is partial to younger persons, prefers smaller joints (such as those of the hands, wrists, and feet), and often destroys the joint proper unless treatment is given.

ARTERY MEDICINE

M. A. M. writes: Is there a medicine to reduce harding of the arteries?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge. Many are advocated for this purpose but there is some question as to their effectiveness. Lowering the blood cholesterol and blood pressure may help. It is also advisable to lose weight if you are obese, be active, and avoid tension.

Sentence Date For Series Star

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — Stu Gilliam, co-star of the TV series "Roll Out," will be sentenced Feb. 27 on a misdemeanor charge of "rude and threatening behavior" for waving an ax at a headwaiter in a Hollywood restaurant.

A Superior Court jury yesterday acquitted Gilliam, 40, of the more serious felony count of assault with a deadly weapon. He could receive a maximum of six months in jail and a $500 fine on the misdemeanor conviction.

Prosecutors said Gilliam got the ax from his car during a dispute with the headwaiter over a table at the "Lobster Barrel," a restaurant run by another TV series star, Allan Hale of "Gilligan's Island." Sheriff's deputies said Hale subdued Gilliam and held him for arrest. Gilliam testified that he brought the ax "to get the waiter's attention" but did not actually swing at him with it.

San Rafael, air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Other areas:
San Jose, clean air.
Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Vote Asked Against Mailliard

The Sixth Congressional District Coalition has appealed to California's U.S. senators to vote against confirmation of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, as ambassador to the Organization of American States.

"During his years in Congress," the organization said in letters this week to Sens. John V. Tunney and Alan Cranston, "Representative Mailliard has identified himself with the business community rather than the needs of common people in this country and abroad. He consistently voted as a hawk throughout our war in Indochina. In almost every respect his voting record is opposed to yours," wrote Alan W. Barnett of Mill Valley, chairman of the organization.

The coalition was formed last year by numerous groups active in various political and social causes.

'Fiddlesticks' View of Demons

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Fiddlesticks," said the Archbishop of Canterbury when asked about demonic possession.

Michael Ramsey, spiritual leader of 65 million Anglicans, told a news conference yesterday he believes there is "genuine demonic possession and genuine exorcism, but the genuine element is probably a minority among the phenomena."

The 69-year-old Archbishop added, "If you produced them (the possessed) here in a queue to look at, I would have to say a few were genuine and the majority, fiddlesticks."

He has not seen the movie "The Exorcist," Ramsey said, but he regrets that the act of exorcising demons had been turned into "some sort of stunt" for Hollywood. The film deals with the apparent possession of a 12-year-old child.

The bushy-browed clergyman said the movie is popular because it is part of a current religious trend, "part of the craving for the supernatural and the interest in the nonmaterial that's going on."

Ramsey, who was named Archbishop of Canterbury in 1961, said in answer to questions that he was "quite sympathetic" to the idea of women priests, but he felt it should come about through a consensus of all Anglican leaders, not just those in any one country.

Asked about the possibility of "full intercommunion" between the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches, the archbishop said, "It is something that might happen at the end of this century."

Ramsey said there were large-scale differences in doctrine between the two churches, but there had been "major breakthroughs" in the last two decades and he looks forward to continuing cooperation between the two faiths.

J. R. GREY

H. J. HAYNES
Standard Oil chief

Tiburon Man Is Named Standard Oil President

J. R. Grey, 51, of Tiburon, who has been with Standard Oil Company since 1944 and a vice president since 1969, has been named president of Standard Oil Company of California.

The announcement came yesterday from the San Francisco office of Standard of California.

Grey succeeds H. J. Haynes, 48, of Hillsborough, who was elevated to the post of chairman of the board and chief executive officer. Haynes succeeds Otto N. Miller of San Francisco, who resigns today at the age of 65.

Grey joined the company in 1944 as an engineer at the El Segundo refinery, and has held a variety of refining posts leading to his appointment in 1957 as manager of Salt Lake Refining Co., a subsidiary.

He was appointed chief engineer of the parent corporation in 1965; vice president of manufacturing for Standard-Western in 1966, a vice president of the corporation in 1969 and a director in 1970.

Student Photo Contest Slated

More than 800 two-year community colleges from throughout the United States have been invited to participate in a competitive photographic exhibit at the College of Marin this spring.

Students enrolled in photography courses at the colleges during the past year can submit their work for exhibition from March 5 through April 7 at the college's art gallery.

At least five photos will be selected as "purchase awards" which will be bought by the college and become a part of its student art collection.

Hyde Renamed To Bay Board

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Homer H. Hyde of Campbell has been reappointed by the governor as a member of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Hyde, 56, a Republican, has served on the board since 1969. His new term expires Sept. 30, 1977, and pays him necessary expenses.

Report Due Tonight On New Mill Valley Goals

A proposed set of goals for a new Mill Valley central plan will be discussed by a citizen's advisory committee, in the Mill Valley Library board room.

The San Francisco consulting firm of Sedway-Cooke prepared the five-page report on seven basic goals after a citizen's prepared group told the firm that an earlier 32-page report was too complex for use at the present stage of decision-making on the plan.

2. Conserving and enhancing the quality of the city's physical resources, natural processes and character-giving elements.

3. Insuring the physical safety of Mill Valley residents and the security of their property.

4. Promoting a community which is diverse in terms of income, age, race, lifestyle, values, interests and occupations.

5. Promoting a more self-sufficient community independent of work centers in San Francisco.

7. Deemphasizing dependence on and use of the private automobile in Mill Valley and creating an environment that functions for the pedestrian.

FLYING HAWK — Lou Hudson (23) soared past Golden State Warriors Clyde Lee (43) and Rick Barry (24) to score a basket for Atlanta last night during the Warriors' 129-122 victory in Atlanta in a National Basketball Association game. (UPI Telephoto)

Streaking Warriors Vs. Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors, riding a five-game win streak, have closed to within just 1 ½ games of the Los Angeles Lakers in their battle for the National Basketball Association Pacific Division title.

They play their third game in as many nights in as many cities against Houston here tonight (at 6 o'clock on television channels 2 and 40) after taking Atlanta 129-122 behind a 40-point blast by Rick Barry.

The Warriors, who folded frequently in the late going early in the season, seem to have had a shot of intestinal fortitude in their recent outings.

Atlanta closed to within three last night against the obviously tired Warriors only to have some clutch shooting by Jeff Mullins open up the margin again.

Mullins wound up with 24 points to move into 35th place in NBA history with 11,765. Thurmond had moved into 25th place the night before and tonight can pass the 13,000 mark.

Pete Maravich was high for Atlanta with 33 points as both he and Barry, each once the nation's top college scorer, put on a good show for the good crowd of nearly 9,000.

Not only do the Warriors trail Los Angeles by only 1 ½ games, but both teams are the same in the loss column with 22. The Lakers have played three more games and won more, 29 to the Warriors' 26.

Golden State (129): Barry 16 8-9 40, Lee 1 0-0 2, Thurmond 6 4-5 16, Beard 3 7-10 13, Mullins 12 0-0 24, Russell 8 2-2 18, Barnett 2 4-4 8, G. Johnson 1 2-4 4, C. Johnson 2 0-0 4. Totals 51 27-34 129.

ABA FILES $300 MILLION SUIT

Pro Cage War Is Declared

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The American Basketball Association, its feathers ruffled when the rival National Basketball Association dragged its feet on an agreed merger, declared war today on the NBA.

The first step in its campaign to force a merger or break up the NBA's stranglehold on sites and players, was taken yesterday when the ABA filed an antitrust suit in San Francisco Federal Court.

The suit asks $300 million in damages and if successful could throw pro basketball into chaos.

"We are at war," said ABA attorney Frederick P. Furth, who filed the suit. "The NBA has not acted in good faith in seeking a merger, has been guilty of breach of contract, has repeatedly misled legislators and the public with fraudulent statements and has avoided a merger at every turn."

The two leagues signed an agreement in May 1971, which the ABA says bound the leagues to work together toward a merger and jointly urge Congress to pass legislation exempting such a merger from antitrust laws.

In its suit the ABA alleges the NBA has a monopoly on players and is seeking $100 million, which would be trebled under the antitrust laws. It also has filed three alternative suits for $100 million each, alleging breach of contract.

More important than the money damages, however, is the ABA's request for an injunction blocking the NBA from signing any college players for the next four years and preventing the older circuit from enforcing all its current contracts beyond their expiration date.

The ABA also seeks to prevent the NBA from signing players to multi-year contracts and from exercising the option clause, which it is asking the court to declare illegal.

The moves in effect would make every NBA player a free agent upon expiration of his current contract. There are some who believe such a ruling would create chaos. ABA commissioner Mike Storen feels otherwise.

"It wouldn't be chaos," he said. "It would be a free and open market."

DUEL — California Golden Seals goalie Gilles Meloche won his one-on-one battle with St. Louis' Pierre Plante last night, eventually batting the puck away with his stick in the first period. The host Blues went on to a 6-4 National Hockey League victory, however. (UPI Telephoto)

Nothing To Write Home For Seals

CHICAGO (UPI) — When the California Golden Seals take to the road they don't have much to write home about.

Their road record slipped another notch last night as Garry Unger, the most valuable player on the West's All-Star squad, scored a hat trick to lead the St. Louis Blues to a 6-4 win.

Against the Blues' rookie goalie John Davidson, Gary Croteau tied the score at 1-1, Craig Patrick gave California a 2-1 lead and Walt McKechnie and Patrick added tallies in the final period.

But, Unger scored the winning goal at 5:09 of the third period. He had tied the game at 2-2 with about one minute left in the second period, while Seals' goalie Gilles Meloche stood frozen in the net.

Grid Draft Preliminaries End; Battle Lines Drawn

The National Football League concluded its longest college player draft in eight years yesterday and the battle lines are now drawn with the new World Football League.

The fledgling league held a preliminary draft of 72 collegians last week and the NFL picked its usual 442 players Tuesday and yesterday in a 22-hour session. Included in that group were the three "name players" reportedly signed Monday by the WFL—UCLA running backs Kermit Johnson and James McAlister and Southern California guard Booker Brown.

Now the battle to sign players begins and it could result in a renewal of the costly bidding war that forced the AFL and NFL to merge in 1967.

The New York Giants locked up Ohio State guard John Hicks, the Lineman of the Year, for three years and $150,000 on Tuesday and Dallas reportedly is ready to announce the signing of No. 1 pick Ed Jones, the defensive tackle from Tennessee State. But it's wide open after that and the WFL soon will conclude its draft of collegians and NFL players whose options have expired.

The NFL clubs inched through the early rounds, fearful of errors in selecting a player already committed to the WFL, but Al Davis, one of the AFL firebrands in the war days of 1960-66, finally fired the first shot.

Davis, once American Football League commissioner and now the managing general partner of the Oakland Raiders, selected McAlister on the sixth round and Sid Gillman, another man instrumental in getting the AFL off the ground, quickly followed by taking Brown. Johnson went to San Francisco a round later.

Trading also was very light. The only major deal yesterday saw the Pittsburgh Steelers send outspoken John Rowser, their starting left cornerback, to Denver for a pair of draft choices.

Jack Mildren, a former star wishbone quarterback at Oklahoma, was reunited with his old college coach, Chuck Fairbanks, when Baltimore dealt the safetyman to New England. Fairbanks has hinted that he may use the wishbone in the pros in certain situations and Mildren's acquisition may open the way.

The Patriots also dealt much-traveled linebacker Steve Kiner to Houston for a draft pick and Baltimore obtained running back George Nock from Washington for guard Corny Johnson and sent reserve linebacker Ed Mooney to Washington. The Redskins also purchased veteran wide receiver Joe Sweet from Los Angeles for a draft choice.

Two basketball players also were drafted. Leonard Gray, Long Beach State's 6-8 center, went to San Francisco as a tight end on the 15th round and Brigham Young forward Doug Richards was picked by Dallas as a defensive back on the 14th. Massachusetts wide receiver Tim Berra, son of New York Mets' Manager Yogi Berra, went to Baltimore on the last round.

UCLA had the most players selected—12—while Penn State, Colorado and Michigan each had 10 chosen.

IF WFL FOLDS

Raiders, 49ers To Sit Pretty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers and Oakland Raiders will be sitting pretty should the World Football League fold.

The Raiders yesterday drafted UCLA's Jim McAllister on the sixth round and the 49ers got his running mate, Kermit Johnson, in the seventh.

Both men would have undoubtedly gone in the first two rounds had not they already signed contracts with the World Football League. The Bay Area teams either hope the league will fold or that the Bruin stars will become disenchanted after their contracts run out.

The Raiders took placekicking record setter Rod Garcia of Stanford in the seventh round yesterday and concentrated on running backs and defensive backs the rest of the way.

Kenith Pope of Oklahoma was a ninth round pick and the 10th selection was Chris Arnold of Virginia State, who returned interceptions for 68, 47 and 38 yard touchdowns last season.

Running backs Harold Hart of Texas Southern and Noe Gonzales of Southwest Texas were also selected.

The 49ers went for a couple of big lineman in Mike Raines of Alabama and Jim Schnietz of Missouri and also picked USC running back Manfred Moore.

One interesting 49er selection was 15th round pick basketball star Leonard Gray of Long Beach, who played no football in college. But the 6-8 240-pound Gray shows awesome strength on the court and will be tried at tight end.

Guerrero Is Correct

Mondo Guerrero was the high scorer with 21 points Tuesday night for First American Title in a San Rafael Recreation Department adult basketball league game. He was incorrectly identified as Mondo Ganreno.

'Schoolyard Ball' For ABA Stars

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — American Basketball Association All-Stars didn't especially care that the league had filed a $300-million anti-trust suit against the NBA earlier in the day and they weren't much concerned that Virginia owner Earl Foreman was having money problems again.

All the players really cared about was having a good time and playing last night what one called "good old schoolyard ball."

And that's exactly what the ABA's seventh All-Star game was like. It was back to the schoolyards all the way-Carolina's Ted McClain pumping three times on a funky layup in the second period. New York's Julius Erving throwing fancy passes and Kentucky's Artis

Spring Training Nears, But Only 10 Giants Have Signed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — With the opening of spring training camp less than a month away, the San Francisco Giants have only 10 players under contract for the 1974 season.

"I'm satisfied," said the chunky lefthander after agreeing to terms with Jerry Donovan, who handles contract signing for the Giants.

Other players reaching agreement yesterday were pitchers Jim Barr, Randy Moffitt, Don Rose and Gary Ryerson and utility outfielder Jim Howarth. Previously signed were Bobby Bonds, Chris Speier, John D'Acquisto and Bruce Miller.

The Giants, meanwhile, have opened informal drills at Candlestick Park. In yesterday's first practice session, taken in by manager Charlie Fox, Bonds and Kingman were impressive, each hitting half a dozen balls into the seats.

There will be another session today and tomorrow, then on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays until the club goes to camp in late February.

Miami Selects Greenbrae's Wickert In The Ninth Round

Greenbrae's Tom Wickert, chosen yesterday by Miami in the annual pro football draft, will give "definite consideration" to the Dolphins but also will be "open-minded" toward a possible offer from the new World Football League.

The former Redwood High School star was selected in the ninth round by the National Football League champions, on a choice they had obtained from Chicago.

"I was lucky to be drafted," said Wickert, who played offensive tackle for Washington State. "I haven't really decided where I'll go yet — I'll probably pick the team which is most beneficial to me.

"I always did want to play in the NFL, but I'll be open-minded toward the World league," he continued. "I will have to give Miami definite consideration. You make the team there, and it's a good deal."

The Dolphins have won the Super Bowl, and its pot of $25,000 per man, for two consecutive years. They are ranked with the greatest football teams of all-time.

TOM WICKERT
Open to offers

The Dolphins picked only one other offensive lineman in the draft — guard Joe Sullivan, a seventh-round pick from Boston College. However, they have a strong, young line with Larry Little and Bob Kuechenberg at guard and Wayne Moore, Norm Evans and Doug Crusan at tackle.

Wickert, 6-foot-5 and 240 pounds, was listed as a guard by the Dolphins on their draft list, though he played tackle for Washington State. He performed well at guard in the East-West Shrine Game in San Francisco Dec. 30.

Wickert has not yet been selected by the fledgling WFL, which began its draft last week and will resume next week. He said the Hawaii and Southern California franchises contacted him, saying they would draft him and asking him not to sign with the NFL.

Wickert said he had also been contacted by an assistant coach from Miami, who "seemed enthusiastic" in a brief talk.

Wicker's negotiations will be handled by Keith Lincoln, former star running back for the San Diego Chargers and now assistant alumni director at Washington State. Lincoln's playing career coincided with the NFL's bidding war with the American Football League in the early 1960s.

Revenge Sought By 3 Sonoma Quintets

With their basketball championship hopes all but eliminated, Petaluma, Rancho Cotate and Casa Grande high schools will all be seeking to salvage some pride and gain a measure of revenge tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. when they begin their second rounds of league play.

In the small school ranks, St. Vincent (Petaluma) will visit Tomales tomorrow for an 8:30 p.m. renewal of their long-time North Central League II basketball rivalry.

Petaluma (2-5) could easily have been 4-3 in the North Bay League with just a couple more baskets, as the Trojans suffered two one-point losses in the first round. One of them, 45-44, was to Vintage of Napa (4-3) which visits the Trojans tomorrow.

Even with those two victories, though, Petaluma would still be three games behind undefeated Ukiah (7-0) which has opened up a three-game lead over the rest of NBL and seems to have the title virtually locked up.

Rancho Cotate (4-3) mathematically still has a shot at the Sonoma County league crown, standing just two games back. But no one else in the league appears to be able to head off Cardinal Newman (Santa Rosa) and Analy (Sebastopol), who are both at 6-1.

The Cougars do have a good chance for third place, however, but to achieve this they must get by Healdsburg (4-3) at home tomorrow. The Greyhounds beat Rancho Cotate, 58-38, in their league opener.

Casa Grande (2-5) will probably fall even farther back in the SCL standings tomrrow, as it will be hosting Cardinal Newman.

The first time the two teams met, the Gauchos outplayed the Cardinals in the second half, but couldn't make up a 19-point halftime deficit and lost, 56-39.

St. Vincent (1-2) and Tomales (1-3) have both fallen quickly behind Point Arena and Calistoga (both 3-0) in the NCL II, but records don't seem to matter when these two rivals square off against each other.

Hot-Handed Miller Back On Tour In Hawaii Open

HONOLULU (UPI) — After a week of rest and recuperation, hot-handed Johnny Miller rejoined the Pacific Golfers Association tour today for the start of the $220,000 Hawaiian Open in hopes of making it four out of five for the year.

Miller, who grabbed $90,000 in capturing the first three events on the 1974 tour before taking last week off "to shake his head cold I've had for five weeks," went off in the opening round as the favorite, followed closely by perennial leader Jack Nicklaus, who made a last-minute decision to enter here.

Bobby Nichols, the only man besides Miller to win a 1974 Tour event, also figured as a favorite on the strength of his victory in last week's San Diego Open.

Miller was favored not only because of his hot hand in the first three tournaments of the year, but also because of the lightning-fast greens on the 7,154-yard, par 72 Waialae course.

The 26-year-old blond credited his streak of victories in the Crosby, Phoenix and Tucson Opens to his ability to make putts when they were crucial, and this seaside course is especially suited for a good putting game.

Nicklaus, who skipped the Hawaiian Open last year and has been selective about the number of tournaments he played in the past few years, decided at the last minute to enter in the chase for the $44,000 first prize in Hawaii.

"I've been itching to play," he said. "I tried my game out at home. I wasn't great but I'm hitting the ball pretty well."

In his only other start of the year, Nicklaus finished in a tie for 24th in the weather-shortened Crosby.

Defending champion John Schlee, who carded a 15 under par 273 to cupture the Hawaii Open last year, said he felt "at home" here and expected to play well.

Schlee, along with other former Hawaiian Open winners Lee Trevino, Gay Brewer, Bruce Crampton, Tom Shaw and Grier Jones, all were shooting for the honor of being the first two-time winner in the tournament.

Among the other challengers here are Arnold Palmer, Miller Barber, Billy Casper and young lions Ben Crenshaw and Lanny Wadkins.

Finley Denies Report Bando To Manage A's

CHICAGO (UPI) — Oakland Athletics owner Charles O. Finley says "there is nothing to that story" that Sal Bando might be a playing manager for his team.

Commenting on a report Bando would succeed Dick Williams as A's Finley pilot, Finley said Bando would remain on third base as playing captain, but not be the manager.

Tennis Tournament For Women Slated

A round-robin tennis tournament for women will be held at the Granada School tennis courts in Corte Madera beginning at 9:30 a.m. Feb. 14.

Awards and prizes for the Valentine's Day event will be provided by the Corte Madera Recreation Department. Advance registration is required at town hall.

MARIN TAR FIVE HOME VS. CANADA

College of Marin's basketball team, fighting to remain alive in the Camino Norte Conference race, returns home to Kentfield tonight to host Canada College of Redwood City at 8 p.m.

The Tars, 16-2 overall and ranked ninth in the state, stand 4-2 in the conference and are pursuing undefeated De Anza of Cupertino (7-0).

Marin rolled to a 73-58 victory over West Valley in Campbell Tuesday night. Canada, 2-4 in the league and 6-11 overall, dropped a 75-63 decision to De Anza Tuesday.

Gilmore won the Most Valuable Player award and was given a sailboat by a local company for leading the East to an easy 128-112 romp over the West.

Gilmore's only competition in the voting of sports writers was San Antonio rookie center Swen Nater but the margin was about 2-1. Gilmore's selection drew loud boos from the capacity crowd of 10,624 which thought Nater had earned it.

Statistically, at least, the crowd was right. Nater scored 29 points and 22 rebounds in just 28 minutes while Gilmore had only 18 points and 13 rebounds in 27 minutes.

Indiana's George McGinnis, who rarely has reservations about shooting the ball, fired 21 shots at the rim in 30 minutes and was at least partly responsible for the West's horrendous 38.8 shooting percentage. McGinnis did hit seven shots though for 14 points and had 11 rebounds. On the dark side he led both teams with eight turnovers.

"We're just down here for a good time," McGinnis said. "Y'know, party and play some ball. Good old schoolyard ball. Man, we was drinkin' beer all day. That's where I'm goin' now. Man, when you go around once in life, you gotta grab all the gusto you can."

Finley's ABA Tams Sought By Record Firm

Combined AP & UPI

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — The Stax Record Co., a Memphis-based recording firm, is negotiating with owner Charles O. Finley to buy the Memphis Tams' American Basketball Association franchise, Stax executives confirmed yesterday.

Jim Stewart, founder and president of Stax, said a company representative has met with Finley at his Chicago office to discuss the purchase, but that nothing definite has been decided.

A Memphis newspaper, the Commercial Appeal, reported today that other sources with the ABA say the discussions are in the serious stages.

Finley, who owns the Oakland A's and recently said he was told by his doctors to sell, is seeking $1 million in cash for the cellar team in the ABA's Eastern Division. The Commercial Appeal said Stax is willing to put up the money.

More Basketball

NORFOLK, Va. — Angry Virginia fans responded to rumors of another sale of a star player by Squires' owner Earl Foreman by hanging cynical signs at last night's American Basketball Association All-Star game.

One sign, 20 feet long, white chalked on black paper with a hangman's noose and the words "Sell Foreman" hung 75 feet from where the owner sat alongside ABA commissioner Mike Storen.

The fans also hurled verbal abuse at Foreman after hearing 21-year-old George Gervin, the league's fourth leading scorer with a 25.2 average, may be dealt to the San Antonio Spurs. Other star players previously dealt away by Foreman include Julius Erving, Rick Barry, Swen Nater and Charlie Scott.

OAKLAND — The Golden Gaters, San Francisco-Oakland's entry in World Team Tennis, yesterday traded two draft picks to Toronto for the rights to Australian star Leslie Hunt.

Toronto received the Gaters sixth draft pick Jurgen Fassbender of West Germany and 13th choice Kate Latham of Palo Alto for the 23-year-old blonde Aussie from Perth. Miss Hunt was Toronto's fourth choice in the 1973 draft.

RICHMOND, Va. — Top-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania yesterday easily eliminated Pat DuPre of Palo Alto, Calif., 6-0, 6-1, in the first round of the $50,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament.

BALTIMORE — Clark Graebner of New York City yesterday eliminated Belus Prejoux of Chile, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3, and advanced to the quarter-finals of the Baltimore International Indoor Tennis Championships.

Bowling

CLEVELAND — Dale Glenn and Larry Laub, a pair of Californians, yesterday shared the lead in the $60,000 Cleveland Open Bowling Tournament after averaging 235 for 12 games.

Swimming

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand — Slender Vancouver student Wendy Cook set the first world record in the swimming competition of the 10th British Commonwealth Games today when she broke the backstroke record in the final of the women's 400 medley relay.

Miss Cook clocked 1.04.78 seconds, shaving .21 seconds off the previous world mark established by East Germany's Unrike Richter at Belgrade last September.

Baseball

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Ray Kroc, 71-year-old millionaire owner of the McDonald Corp., who always dreamed of owning a baseball team, will be formally approved today as the new head of the San Diego Padres.

National League club owners were to meet with president Charles (Chub) Feeney to approve Kroc's purchase last week of the financially-troubled Padres from C. Arnholt Smith. The meeting is scheduled at a resort hotel for 2:30 p.m. PDT and acceptance of Kroc as an N.L. owner is expected to be a mere formality.

Tanyas, Firemen Win In Basketball

The Alto Fire Department and the Tanyas scored victories last night to remain tied for first place in the Strawberry Recreation District men's league basketball race in games held at the Recreation Center.

Wayne Dhalgren scored 20 points to lead the Tanyas to a 60-44 victory over the 49ers, and Joe Reilly dropped in 16 as the firemen beat Dick Munden's team, 54-41.

VOIDED BY COMMISSIONER

Williams, Yankees Had A Secret Pact

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Quietly and without any fuss, hoping maybe if the whole thing was ignored long enough it might go away, Bowie Kuhn finally has handed down a decision in the Charlie Finley-Dick Williams' tangle.

All it possibly does is make Charlie Finley feel a little better because the last time he had anything at all to do with the baseball commissioner, he was hit with a fine and suspension.

This time Kuhn has ruled in Finley's favor and slapped down both Williams and the club he thought he was going to manage this year —the New York Yankees.

The agreement was dated Dec. 12, 1973, signed by both Williams and Yankee president Gabe Paul, and drawn up under a number of assumptions.

Assumption No. 1 was that Dick Williams would accept the managership of the Yankees, which he did.

Assumption No. 2 was that Joe Cronin, the American League President at the time, would approve Williams' contract with the Yankees, which he didn't.

Assumption No. 3 was that after Williams's contract with the Yankees was approved, Finley would turn around and sue both, which he won't bother doing now because Bill Virdon, and not Williams, is going to manage the Yankees.

At any rate, Williams and the Yankees had a separate agreement between them, one which might never have been made public were it not for the hearing Cronin conducted in Boston late last month before issuing his decision.

During that hearing, the Oakland club inquired whether Williams and the Yankees had entered into any separate agreement in addition to the standard contract they had signed.

"We want to see it," said Charlie Finley's lawyer.

The agreement was produced.

It called for a number of unusual provisions and remains as something of a monument to the esteem in which the Yankees held and-or still hold Dick Williams as a manager.

In the agreement they said to Dick Williams ... "we agree to indemnify, defend and save you harmless from (A) all judgments for money damages obtained against you by the Oakland Athletics Division of Charles O. Finley & Co., Inc., or Charles O. Finley, (B) all legal fees and disbursements of counsel incurred by you in connection with any action or proceeding brought against you by Finley Arising or resulting from the execution of the contract, and (C) all fines assessed against you by either the Commissioner of Baseball or the American League President arising or resulting from the execution of the contract ..."

Of course, Dick Williams was obliged to meet a few provisions also, like accepting the counsel the Yankees would assign him, cooperate with such counsel and not disclose the terms of the agreement, which, in fact, he hasn't.

When the so-called Dec. 12th agreement was produced at the Boston hearing, however, Bowie Kuhn immediately got word of it and subsequently made his decision, copies of which he sent to Williams and Paul.

"Having reviewed the Dec. 12th agreement, I'm satisfied it is unenforceable under our rules," said Kuhn. "It has been determined by President Cronin that Mr. Williams remains under contract to the Oakland club. Under these circumstances, it would be improper for the Yankees to pay, or to hold him harmless from, the expenses of any dispute he may have with the Oakland club, or to aid or to counsel him in any such dispute.

"Indeed, it would be improper for the Yankees to have any contact or relationship with Mr. Williams so long as he remains under contract to the Oakland club. I will therefore expect the Yankees and Mr. Williams to conduct themselves accordingly."

In view of Kuhn's decision, there is little way the Yanks could fire Bill Virdon after a few months or a year and then bring in Dick Williams as some have suggested unless perhaps Charlie Finley sells the club.

Tamalpais Wrestlers Powerful

By LEW CODDINGTON

Unlike last year, when three schools crowded and elbowed their way to the top of the wrestling standings, the Marin County Athletic League this season has a torrid one-team race on its hands.

Tamalpais High School carried a 4-0 record into today's match with San Marin, and the Indians' victories have been overwhelming ones, by scores like 34-15, 53-11, 50-17 and 47-14.

Tam was one of three schools to tie for the title last year, the others being Terra Linda and Redwood, who have been hit by graduation. The Indians, contrariwise, have returned most of their stars. They even come in pairs.

The brothers Ron (114 pounds) and Greg (122) Ford are undefeated in league eight matches between them. Another brother combination is Ken (140 or 146) and Bob (156) Praszker, strong wrestlers in the middle weights.

Larry Sibbalauca (97) and Mike Lamb (193) were undefeated in league competition entering the San Marin match, and Greg Shaughnessy (129) had lost only to Terra Linda's unbeaten transfer, Arman Walker.

For the second straight year, Terra Linda caught Tam early in the season and lost to the Indians. The Trojans won their ensuing four matches by scores of 39-15, 44-18, 36-24 and 54-15.

The Trojans have three once-beaten grapplers, Mark Egide (122), Bob Martz (135) and Keith Orr (140).

Redwood, in the midst of rebuilding, can boast undefeated Mike Roush (177) and Said Farah (105), though Roush was threatened today by Novato's unbeaten John Davidson. Pat McCracken (135) is another undefeated Hornet.

San Marin has three grapplers who have not lost — Jeff Trahan (156), Tim Lessley (167) and Hal Wood (unlimited). Even winless San Rafael has unbeaten Leonard Duff (140).

It remains for Tam to defeat San Marin this evening and Redwood, Feb. 5 to hang a pennant on its wall.

LEADERS — With the completion of seven games, the MCAL basketball season has reached its halfway point, and each team has played each other once, making statistical comparisons reasonably valid.

San Rafael High's Byron Stewart has taken over the scoring lead with 144 points for a 20.6 average. Mike Dinehart of Tamalpais is one point behind. Eddie Joe Chavez of Drake has 131 and Mike Mahoney of Marin Catholic 129.

San Rafael leads in team defense with 330 points surrendered for a 47.1 average. Redwood has given up 341 and Tamalpais 342. Marin Catholic is the scoring leader with 446 points for a 63.7 average, with Redwood tallying 433.

Wolford Tallies 29 In Rec Basketball

Ron Wolford poured in 29 points last night as Costamagna and Vallarino racked up a 73-54 victory over the Lost Devils in a San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league game at San Rafael High.

John Shaw's 21 points for Hub City offset the 23 scored by THE's Rick Love and gave Hub a 56-50 triumph in the only other game.

SKI SCENE

Ways Of Reducing Accident Chances

By CHARLIE COANE

The Consumer Product Safety Commission has pulled together some facts, figures and tips about winter sports which I feel warrant discussion.

For openers, 183,000 American) will seriously injure themselves in sports this winter. That breaks down to 84,000 skiers, 30,000 skaters, 30,000 hockey players, 20,000 sledders and tobogganers and 19,000 snowmobilers.

The data compiled by the Commission suggest "major hazard patterns associated with various winter sports." In skiing, most injuries occurred when bindings did not release and when the skier was going too fast, lost control, or hit a mogul. Many accidents happened when the skier was tired.

So how can you avoid getting hurt? In many cases, you can't. That's the chance you take. You most certainly are more likely to be hurt skiing than watching TV or raking leaves. But at least you can cut down the percentages: Contrary to what some people believe, it is the beginner who is most often hurt. For that reason, it pays to take lessons from an expert, and "learning" from friends can, many times, form bad habits. Lessons will help you progress faster — and then you won't be a beginner anymore. That seems simple enough.

Equipment is certainly a key in any injury situation, and you should make sure that you have good equipment that fits well. Bindings are particularly important — they should always be in perfect working order. Don't let dirt or road film sneak into the binding mechanism. Have bindings adjusted by someone who knows what he's doing. Any competent ski shop should do the trick. Check them each time you ski.

In general, the more beginner you are, the more loose the bindings should be. You should become very familiar with your bindings and test the mechanisms to see what it takes to spring loose. There are many different kinds of bindings that are fine — but they all work differently. None is guaranteed not to break your leg.

Learn how the various lifts work before you leap on. There are chairlifts, poma lifts, T-bars and rope tows, basically — and each has a certain way to ride them. It's simple enough, but check it out first.

Pay attention to what you're doing on the slopes. Watch for other skiers. You'll undoubtedly run into someone sometime — but see how long you can go without that happening.

Don't tackle a slope that's over your head. If you've skied only a few times and your friends say "Come on, you can handle the West Face (Squaw), Gunbarrel (Heavenly Valley) or other similar runs — tell them to meet you later in the bar. If you're not familiar with an area, ask someone, grab a map or watch for trail signs — if there are any.

Don't ski alone and a final word of advice is to "leave the last run of the day on the hill" — meaning you may be too tired, so stop skiing.

A word about the weather. No matter what anyone says, you can't always predict what the skiing will be like based upon the weather. Case in point: Two weekends ago, the week had been filled with rain in the mountains and the predictions for the weekend were grim — from all sources. And standing in the lodge at Kirkwood on Friday night, I wouldn't have given the skiing one chance in 10 to be good Saturday and Sunday. Well, the temperature dropped — Saturday was great, and Sunday the light snow all day made that day one of the best in years. Percect everywhere. You never really know. Incidentally, Kirkwood's two new chairs have moved that area into the big leagues.

4-Minute Mile Goal Tomorrow

The four-minute mile has never been run in San Francisco, but that fact may change tomorrow night when the field at the Examiner games takes off at 10:20 p.m. at the Cow Palace.

Running will be Marty Liquori, Hailu Ebba, Fanie Van Ziji, Steve Prefontaine, Len Hilton and a sixth runner, not yet selected, who will attempt to set a fast pace.

Liquori was the world's top-ranked miler in 1969 and 1971, has run a personal best of 3:54.6 and has defeated world record holder Jim Ryun.

Prefontaine also has done a 3:54.6, and last week ran an American record 8:22.1 for two miles in Portland. At that meet, American champion Hilton (who has done 3:55.9) won the mile.

Van Zijl, with a 3:56 mile to his credit, was unbeaten in five races in the U.S. in 1972, but was deprived of a chance to compete in the Olympics because of the apartheid policies of his native South Africa. Ebba, from Ethiopia, won the Pacific Eight title for Oregon State last spring and has done 3:57.8.

The Cow Palace record is 4:00.3 by Jim Grelle in 1966, and the world indoor record is 3:56.4 by Tom O'Hara in 1964 and Ryun in 1971. Liquori, "Pre," Hilton and Van Zijl have bettered the latter mark outdoors.

Also scheduled to run is Marcello Fissconaro of South Africa and Italy, who holds the world record of 1.43.7 in the 800 meters and has done 45.5 in the 400 meters. He will run 600 yards Friday. Jim Bolding, a star at the 440 intermediate hurdles, will oppose him.

Ethiopia's Miruts Yifter, who defeated American Frank Shorter in a brilliant 10,000-meter race in the Munich Olympics, will face Shorter in the two-mile.

The 34-event Examiner Games program includes women's, high school, junior college, senior and age-group competition, beginning at 5:55 p.m. tomorrow.

Other featured performers include sprinter Steve Williams, high jumper Dwight Stones, marathon runner Frank Shorter and shot putters Al Feuerbach and George Woods.

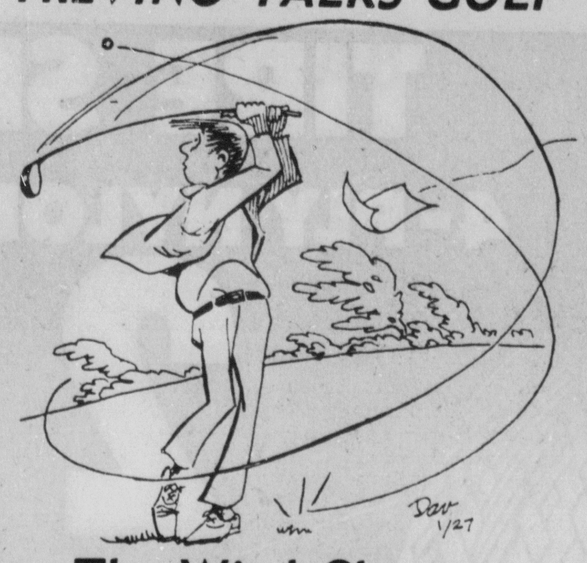
TREVINO TALKS GOLF



The Wind Cheater

By LEE TREVINO

Playing in high winds takes as much imagination as muscle. Check the scores of the women's tour when the wind is rattling their wigs. They handle it better than men because they don't try to overpower it.

Two suggestions: Hit two more clubs than normal, but swing easy — a 4-iron instead of a 6-iron. And pretend there's a tree three feet in front of your ball, and that your club will hit it on the follow-through.

In the wind it's best to hit down on each shot and come through low. It's like a punch shot — a karate chop on the ball and a low follow-through.

If the wind is less than 12 miles per hour, forget it. My wife, Clyde, stirs a bigger tempest than that on the telephone. But when the velocity rises, move the ball back and your hands forward.

Of all the things you want, that ain't one. It'll come back at you.

Indy Practice Time Cut

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway, in an effort to reduce fuel consumption by about 35 per cent, announced today it is cutting practice days for this year's 500-mile auto race from 19 to 11 and the time trial days from four to two.

A spokesman for track owner Tony Hulman announced that the famed oval will open for practice May 6, about a week later than in the past, and that two Saturday, May 11 and May 18, will be used to fill the 33-car lineup for the May 26 race.

The speedway also announced that practice days will be cut from nine hours to seven.

In the event of rain on scheduled qualifying days, May 12 and May 19 could be used to fill the field, the spokesman said.

Pittsburgh Sleeping In Pro Hockey

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The shock of a mid-season shakeup over with, the Pittsburgh Penguins have been lulled back to sleep.

The Penguins, languishing near the basement of the National Hockey League western division for most of the season, woke up briefly about a week ago after a massive player shakeup and won three straight. But Wednesday, the New York Rangers, who are on a midseason revival of their own, handed Pittsburgh its third consecutive loss (4-2) and it can be safely assumed the Penguins will go quietly for the rest of the season.

Elsewhere in the NHL, St. Louis posted a a 6-4 victory over California and Vancouver vanquished Detroit 7-3. Over the World Hockey Association, Cleveland downed Houston 5-1 and Chicago edged Vancouver 3-2.

Defenseman Brad Park's power play goal midway through the third period broke up a 2-2 tie and led the Rangers to their win over Pittsburgh.

ON WEEKEND TOUR

Sonoma State Five Can Increase Lead

After posting seven straight victories during January in the friendly confines of its Rohnert Park gym, Sonoma State College will journey this weekend in a resumption of Far Western Conference basketball play.

Tomorrow night, the Cossacks (4-0 in league) will meet the San Francisco State Gators (2-2) and then travel across the bay Saturday night to play the Hayward Pioneeers (0-4). Both contests start at 8 p.m. and will be preceded by junior varsity clashes at 6 p.m.

What was supposed to be a tight conference race could begin to be a runaway for Sonoma if it gets by both opponents this weekend, as every other team in the league has two or more losses.

If the Cossacks win both games, they will carry at least a two-game lead into the second round of league action regardless of how second place University of California, Davis (3-2) fares this weekend.

The Gators, coached by Dr. Lyle Damon, ware a defense-oriented team with good quickness and aggressiveness, according to Sonoma coach Bill Trumbo. On offense, they play a disciplined game but move the ball around.

Hayward is also a strong, quick defensive team and is better than its conference record indicates, Trumbo says, despite the loss of leading scorer and all-conference performer Walter Lewis, who has quit the team.

Predicted Log Race For Novices Slated

A seminar and a novice predicted log race are scheduled at the St. Francis Yacht Club in San Francisco beginning at 8 a.m. on Saturday, Feb. 9.

Seasoned racers from the Predicted Log Racing Association of Northern California will be on hand to guide the novices, defined as boaters who have not participated in such a race before. Further information may be obtained from PLRANC Commodore Bob Montgomery of San Francisco or Vice Commodore Norm Buell of Berkeley.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Price Doesn't Tell The Story

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Several years ago I bought Zurn Indus. (NYSE) at $40 per share. It has recently been trading below $10, yet each report to shareholders tells of higher operating results. What is wrong with the company? Is the stock worth holding? — F.W.

A. Investors tend to suffer from tunnel vision, seeing solely the declines in their own holdings while being only vaguely aware of the fact that most other stocks have suffered also. In the last year Zurn has dropped 50 per cent, while the blue-chip Dow Industrial Average declined 17 per cent. However, market action of the individual issues which comprise the average was varied, with 22 of the 30 stocks suffering declines of up to 62 per cent. A Media General study showed that of the more than 3,000 listed stocks, half had experienced declines greater than 40 per cent, and 10 per cent had dropped 70 per cent or more. Although the foregoing facts do not make your loss any more palatable, they point up the fact that in bad markets stocks move down regardless of a company's condition.

Zurn has, as you mention, reported consistently higher sales from year to year. Since 1970, earnings have been in an uptrend, which should continue in the current fiscal year, propelled by a 24 per cent jump in order backlog to $144 million as of Sept. 1973. While investors might fear that pollution control equipment manufacturers would be hurt by the energy-crisis-inspired relaxation of standards, this is not the case for Zurn.

In the decade ahead, energy conservation and preservation of the environment will be powerful forces worldwide. Zurn has an established position in this field, both domestically and on an international basis. Although raw material and labor costs will rise, the company's custom-designed systems are not restricted by price controls, which has allowed increased costs to be passed on to customers. Shares should be retained.

Prices Turn Mixed After Early Gains

Dial Financial Corp. opened late on the NYSE after the Federal Reserve denied an application by the Chase Manhattan Bank to acquire the Des Moines company.

18 Per Cent Boost Seen In Cost Of Marin Home

Prices of Marin County homes this year will be 16 to 18 per cent over 1973, which means that a home which sold for $51,000 last year will now cost $60,000.

That is the prediction made by Jeffory Morshead of Frank Howard Allen & Co. in the latest issue of his "Marin County Real Estate Newsletter," which is being circulated to about 7,000 readers.

Drawing his figures from homes sold through the Multiple Listing Sales of the Marin County Board of Realtors, Morshead said inflation was the big factor affecting MLS (Multiple Listing Service) dollar volume. "The number of units sold in 1972 was 2,964 versus 3,001 in 1973. But the dollar volume of 1972 was 131 million versus 154 million in 1973. This represents a unit price increase of 16 per cent (from $44,000 per unit to $51,000 per unit) . . .

"In 1974 the price per unit should inflate 16 per cent to 18 per cent by our predictions, which means an increase from $51,000 per unit to between $59,000 to about $60,000."

Rumors That Blue Chip Stamp Store Will Close Are Scotched

Janes Barnes, manager of the Blue Chip Stamps Redemption Store on Bellam Boulevard, next to the San Rafael Post Office, issued that assurance to scotch rumors that Blue Chip Stamps is on the way out.

"We're not going out of business," said Barnes. "In fact, our new catalog will be coming out the first of May." He acknowledged that Blue Chip Stamps did suffer revenue losses because price controls and the oil shortage caused some firms to halt the issuing of trading stamps.

He said many stores still issue Blue Chip stamps including Cala markets, Purity stores, bowling alleys, many drug stores and some service stations.

Woodall

Brown

ROSEMARY WOODALL and KELMA BROWN, both of San Rafael, won promotions at the Bank of Marin in San Rafael.

Mrs. Woodall was appointed operations officer at the Northgate Industrial Park office. She has been with Bank of Marin for nearly 10 years. Mrs. Brown, who joined the bank in 1962, was named assistant operations officer in the San Rafael headquarters of Bank of Marin.

BIX SERVICE COMPANY, the San Rafael firm that specializes in furniture stripping, will expand its services next month under new ownership. It will be open five days a week instead of three, and will offer free classes in furniture refinishing.

Located at 40 Belvedere Street in the canal area, it will be taken over next week by Thomas W. and Jeanne Rose of Novato and Arthur L. and Sandra Freeman of San Rafael. Rose and Freeman are television executives in San Francisco, and their wives will be managing Bix Service Company of Marin.

Established in Marin about 12 years ago, Bix Service was previously owned by Robert S. Bigham, a merchant seaman. Under new owners, Bix Service will be open Tuesday through Saturday.

"Bix Service Company of Marin will specialize in stripping of all wood and metal furniture, cabinet doors, and antiques and will offer free refinishing classes," said Freeman. "It will be a complete, one-stop stripping and self-refinishing shop."

Flynn

Steele

DAVID P. FLYNN of Novato and HAROLD M. STEELE of San Rafael were elected vice presidents of Fireman's Fund Insurance Company, San Francisco.

Flynn, an actuary, joined Fireman's Fund in 1965 and became assistant vice president in 1972. Steele joined Fireman's in 1936, became assistant vice president in 1964 and assistant to the senior underwriting executive last year.

KENNETH M. PROCTOR Insurance Brokers and Agents moved last week to 1363 Lincoln Avenue, suite 5, (Lincoln-Maple Building) in San Rafael. The new office more than doubles the space at the old location, 1005 A Street.

Principals in the firm are Kenneth M. Proctor and James Dougan. Proctor was re-elected to the board of governors of the Western Associates of Insurance Brokers. Dougan has been active in the insurance field for more than 15 years and serves on the San Rafael Planning Commission.

WAYNE GERMAN of Novato will retire in March from the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, which he joined in 1950 after 20 years of service in the United States Navy. German has lived in Novato for the past 18 years.

German

Adams

ROBERT M. ADAMS, 42, of San Rafael was elected vice president and treasurer of PVO International Inc., a diversified international food, chemical and agricultural products company, with his office in San Francisco.

He was formerly vice president and manager of the international division of Security Pacific National Bank, San Francisco.

Owner-operator is Frank Michelfelder, who operated the drapery cleaning firm under a franchise for about five years but dropped the franchise in December and changed the name.

JOHN L. VIDAL of Fairfax, who has driven half a million accident-free miles for Matson Navigation Company, will retire this week after 40 years of service.

Vidal, who started as an elevator operator in the old Matson Building at 215 Market Street in San Francisco, has driven for seven Matson presidents since he was named driver-dispatcher for the company headquarters auto fleet after World War II.

FIREMAN'S FUND American Insurance Companies in San Francisco announced two more promotions: Raymond H. Riss of Marinwood was appointed assistant vice president of Fireman's Fund American Life; and John J. Hannon of Novato was named secretary in the farm department.

NORTHBAY SAVINGS & Loan Association in Petaluma named Bertha Balfour as assistant vice president and Al Alys as vice president and controller.

Mrs. Balfour, with 12 years of experience in the business, joined Northbay Savings in 1970 and becomes the first woman to attain a vice presidency at Northbay Savings.

Quick Start Wanted On Bon Air Road Job

A long-discussed project to reroute Bon Air Road further away from Marin General Hospital should begin immediately, hospital trustees have decided.

After meeting in closed session Tuesday to discuss possible litigation about the project, trustees instructed hospital administrator Ray K. Bolinger to ask the county to begin work in accord with a contract negotiated several years ago.

The contract required the hospital district to purchase land for the realigned road and do necessary fill work before deeding the land to the county, according to Bolinger.

In return, the hospital was to receive land on existing Bon Air Road for expansion of the hospital and adjacent parking.

Trustees said satisfactory completion of the fill work was acknowledged by the county department of public works on Feb. 1, 1972, and that the agreement required the road work begin within two years after that date.

Lawrence H. Loder, assistant director of public works, said the county now plans to do the Bon Air project in two parts.

The first, for which $225,000 has been budgeted, is to improve the road between Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and the realignment project. He said construction will probably begin on that phase this summer.

The second phase (in which the road actually will be rerouted away from the hospital) has not yet been budgeted. Loder said supervisors will be asked to budget that portion of the project this summer.

Hospital trustees are not satisfied with the two-phase project, however, and last night instructed Bolinger to write to county supervisors asking for completion of the project under the original terms of the agreement.

Orinda Physician Hired For Emergency Services

An Orinda physician has been hired to coordinate emergency services at Marin General Hospital despite objections by Marin doctors who thought the job should go to a local physician, according to Ray K. Bollinger, hospital administrator.

Mitchell Koch was hired Tuesday by Marin Hospital District trustees to direct emergency room operations and assure that physicians will be available to provide emergency treatment 24 hours a day.

Koch will direct doctors who will charge and bill for their services in the emergency room, the hospital will do the billing for hospital services.

Bollinger said the system is in accordance with guidelines established by the California Medical and Hospital associations.

He said several Marin physicians appeared before the board to support current members of the hospital emergency department for the position.

But trustees decided the position should be treated like all other contracts and should go to the individual who will provide the service at the lowest cost.

Some of the ten doctors seeking the position required a guaranteed minimum monthly fees for the service as high as $16,000. But Koch asked no guaranteed fee from the hospital and was thus the low bidder, according to Bolinger.

Marin Hospital District Board Also:

CONTRACT — Approved a contract with Marin County for Short-Doyle funding for treating mental patients. The contract will provide payment for treatment back to July 1, 1973, and will continue through the present fiscal year.

PERSONNEL — Granted a 36-cent per hour raise to hospital engineers, within the 5.5 per cent allowed by the federal Cost of Living Council. Various raises within the 5.5 per cent range were approved for the remaining 825 hospital employees for a total monthly payroll increase of $30,000. Raises for licensed vocational nurses were delayed until their representative could meet with the board, but any increase in their salaries will be effective as of the first pay period in February.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to Feb. 28 at 7 p.m. in Marin General Hospital's Coral Room.

Dyer Names His Election Committee

A committee to elect Gregory Dyer to the Mill Valley City Council has been selected including Lyman Emerson and Kay Walker as co-chairmen; Michael Manning as treasurer, and Sharon Lindner as chairman of coffees.

Mill Valley Display

United Drive Leader Chosen

Southern Sonomans elected to three-year terms on the board of directors include Harold Mahoney and George Tomasini, representing Petaluma, and Jack Eddinger, representing Rohnert Park and Cotati.

LaFranchi said he expects to expand the coming campaign through earlier recruiting of volunteers and increased use of data processing equipment.
